CHURCHILL SAYS NO MERCY FOR HUNS

German Fall Back Under Allied Pounding

STRATEGIC TOWN OF EBOLI FALLS TO AMERICANS

Second Showdown Fight Looms As Kesselring Reforms Line

RAF TAKES ISLE OF COS

Russians Continue Advance And Japs Plastered In Pacific

By International News Service
German forces on the Salerno battlefield wheeled into a sharp retreat today and the United States Fifth Army seized the strategic town of Eboli, 20 miles inland.

Under the impact of steady pressure from the Allies, who pounded the Nazi lines ceaselessly from land, sea and air, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring swung the entire left wing of his defense line backward to new positions beyond the Eboli area.

Kesselring drew on past experience to extricate himself from a perilous situation and reform his lines elsewhere. He withdrew from the whole south end of the battleground to escape the growing threat of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army which is rapidly advancing northward.

Allies Move Up
American and British troops edged steadily forward east of Monte Corvino. The Allies found the roads demolished in the Eboli area to protect the German withdrawal. In addition, the enemy used small numbers of mechanized troops for their rearguard action to slow Allied progress.

There was every indication that another showdown battle will occur as soon as Kesselring has reformed his line in conjunction with other German forces on the east coast.

German prisoners meanwhile said that Allied air force attacks had been a dominant factor in the battle of Italy. One officer said his company lost 50 percent of its men.

With seizure of Eboli, Allied forces came into control of all three roads leading from the Sorrento peninsula into Naples, immediate objective of the present drive.

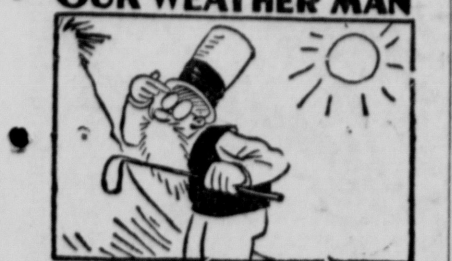

Trouble For Huns

Loss of the Salerno battle foreshadowed dire consequences for Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces. The German general swung the entire left wing of his defense line backward in a retreat to new positions beyond the Eboli area, the communiqué indicated.

Steady pressure along the battle-line of the combined American Fifth and British Eighth Armies proved too powerful for the Axis troops which had been pounded ceaselessly by ground, aerial and sea forces.

Removed Shell

LIEUT. CMDR. Harold W. Jacob (above), Pittsburgh, Pa., was one of a trio of navy doctors responsible for saving the life of sailor Allen Gordon, Rock Island, Ill., after he had been injured in a freak accident aboard a warship. Gordon was struck by a 20 mm. anti-aircraft shell that lodged in his hip. By a freak of fate it failed to explode. At a base hospital, the three doctors operated behind steel plate and removed the live shell from Gordon's hip.

ESHELMAN HITS HARD AT AXIS

Local Mill Adds $50,000 To Growing Total Of War Bonds In County

J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co., another of Circleville's principal industries, stepped into the attack on the Axis Tuesday by subscribing $50,000 for purchase of Series C tax notes with the Pickaway county War Finance Committee.

The subscription was entered by Robert D. Musser, general manager of the plant.

Eshelman Co. joins with Container Corporation of America and Ralston Purina Co. in making large subscriptions in an effort to reach the $1,331,000 goal fixed for the county in the Third War Loan campaign.

Clark Will, chairman of the Third War Loan Drive, said Tuesday that the Eshelman firm is lending full support to the drive.

Mr. Musser is a member of the Special Prospects committee, and employees of the plant are enrolled under the payroll deduction plan. There is also an employee committee at work in the "Buy an Extra Bond" campaign. Other employees of the firm are members of the Volunteer Solicitors' committee.

While the state of Ohio is within 22 percent of its quota of $698,000,000 in War Bonds, Mr. Will said Tuesday that Pickaway county is far from 22 percent of its $1,331,000 quota.

"All solicitors are urged to cover this assigned territory at once," Mr. Will stated Tuesday, "as the drive is now past its middle stages. Pickaway county is not up to the average for state sales. Solicitors (Continued on Page Two)

KID COMMANDOS PROPOSED TO FORCE BEHAVIOR

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 21—The "Junior Commandos," or their equivalent, moved from the comic pages today into the reality of every day life.

Leonard Dreyfuss, state civilian defense director of New Jersey, announces that a plan is being considered whereby uniformed boys between the ages of 14 and 18 will be made responsible for the behavior of other youths in their neighborhoods.

LEGION PLANS BIG FIGHT FOR FREE BUSINESS

Greatest Economic, Political Uprising Since 1932 Seen At Omaha

SHUN FOUR FREEDOMS

Post War Program Of FDR Facing Repudiation By Veterans' Assembly

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 21—The American Legion opened its silver jubilee convention in Omaha today by making plans to completely repudiate the post war planning of President Roosevelt in Washington.

The 1,500 delegates, representing more than 1,100,000 veterans of World War I, gathered in Omaha's civic auditorium to start what they predicted would be the greatest economic and political uprising that America has known since 1932.

In 1932, President Roosevelt was elected for the first term by an American public that then was hoping for what Mr. Roosevelt later said was the four freedoms of the New Deal.

The Legion, according to its "kingmakers," does not want any part of the four freedoms at this—its convention in 1943. What the Legion and its 1,500 delegates gathered here in Omaha for the opening session today desired, was an American system of "free enterprise."

The Legion convention opened with the band of the Omaha post playing the Star Spangled Banner. Omaha boasts that it has the largest, single post in the world, with some 6,000 members.

Historic Session
All of the delegates knew that this was the most important convention of all Legion history.

They knew that every politician in the land would follow and watch their decisions at this meeting. They were aware that both the Democratic and Republican national parties would gauge this meeting closely, hoping to find some indication of the way the American public would vote in the coming presidential sweepstakes of 1944.

The Legion boasted in the past and it is even now boasting that (Continued on Page Two)

ORRIN D. DILTZ WINS DFC FOR HEROIC ACTION

Staff Sergeant Orrin D. Diltz, 21, son of Thomas Diltz, 350 Walnut street, has received the government's Distinguished Flying Cross for meritorious service in fighting over Germany and German-held territory. Announcement was made by the War department.

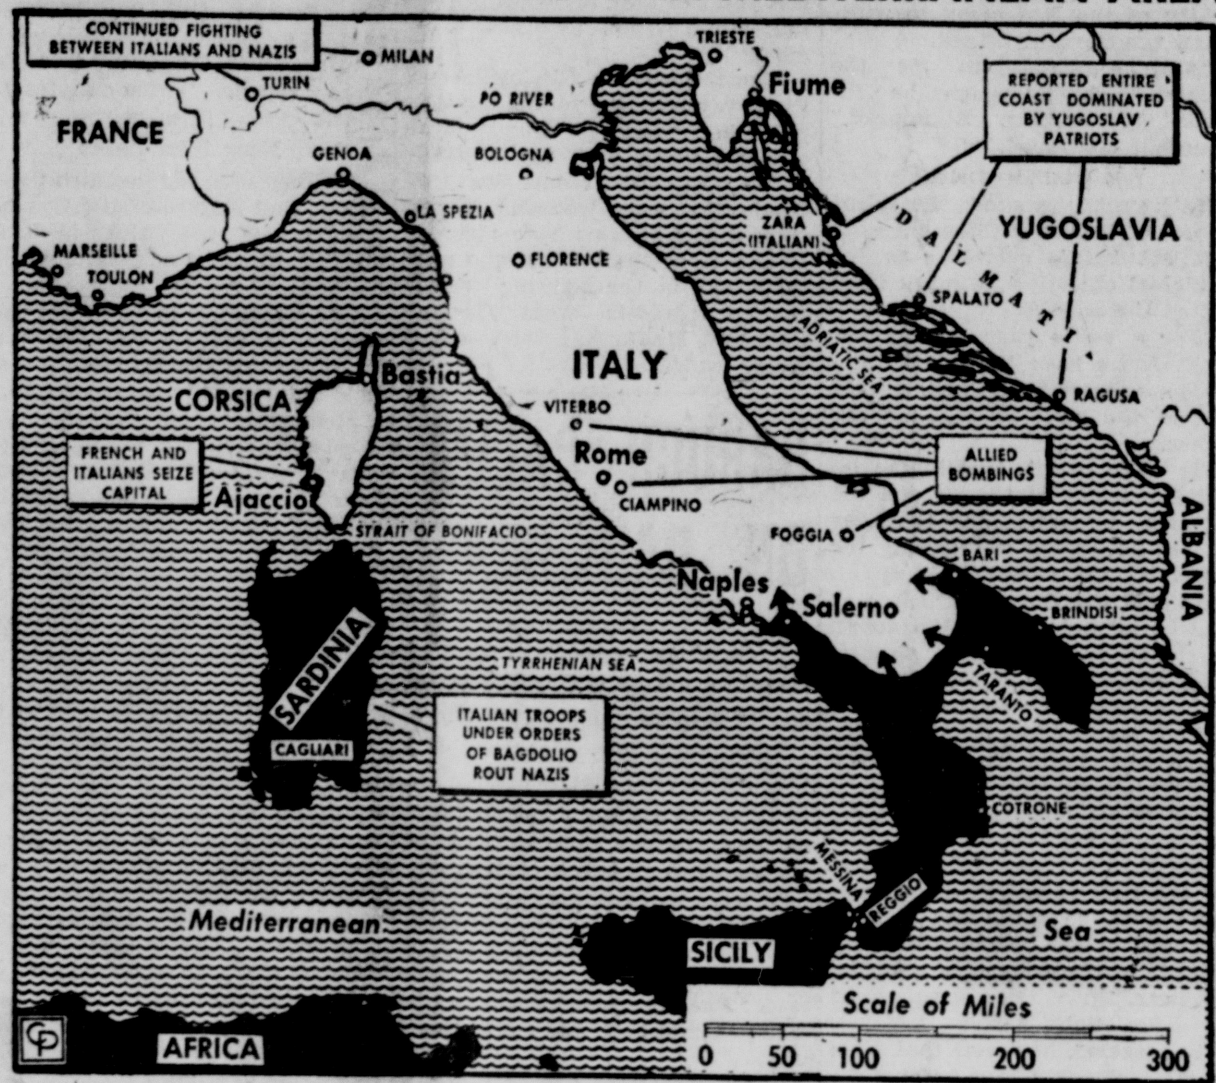

Young Diltz went into service August 24, 1942, and after his training in the United States was sent to England where he joined the U. S. Eighth Air Force. As a gunner he has participated in numerous raids over enemy territory.

The first raid for which he was commended for his role was an American bomber assault in mid-May on the submarine docks of St. Nazaire. The force of planes attacking St. Nazaire on that date was the largest all-American formation to ever leave a British field.

The War office in announcing his decoration gave no detailed information concerning his feats against the enemy, but presentation of the Distinguished Flying Cross is made only after outstanding heroic action.

Another southern Ohio youth was honored on the same date, Sergeant Leo McDaniel of Washington, D. C., being awarded the Army Air Medal for service with the Tenth Air Force based in India.

BERLIN SLAPS AT HOLY SEE

Alleged Anti-Nazi Stand Draws Warning Of "Radical Measures"

By International News Service
A direct threat to the Vatican was voiced today by the Berlin radio which attacked the "pacifism and anti-German sentiments" of the Holy See.

"Let the policy of the Vatican force us not to have recourse to radical measures," said the warning broadcast by the Berlin transmitter in the name of the Nazi-sponsored "National Republican Fascist Government."

The broadcast, beamed to Italy in the Italian language, was recorded by the federal communications commission.

Further tightening of the Nazi cordon around the Vatican City was disclosed at the same time in a brief broadcast by the Vatican transmitter.

"Owing to circumstances beyond our control postal communication with our listeners continues to be interrupted," a Vatican announcer said.

"As soon as this service is resumed it will be announced." The Berlin threat gave the Holy See the choice of deciding for or against Fascism. The broadcast said:

"The Vatican, the prelates, all the hierarchy of the church, from the pope down to the parish priests, have this choice: either with Fascist and Catholic Italy or (Continued on Page Two)

FAKE ENGINEER MAKES GOOD, BUT FBI GRABS HIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—One day after he returned from a trip to foreign waters as chief engineer aboard a Liberty ship, Frank Alexandro, 57, of Baltimore, was held in $1,000 bail today by the FBI charged with being an impostor.

The FBI said Alexandro was not a chief engineer, but a seaman who found Chief Engineer William J. Saunderson's paper and filled in his own name on them. Alexandro served in his impersonation, the FBI explained, from January until his apprehension yesterday.

WINS $2,500 AT RACES, LOSES IT TO NEW "FRIENDS"

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Royden Haymen, 35-year-old Brooklyn beer salesman is one of the few men who can relate how it feels to run $350 into $2,500 at the race track.

Also, to his sorrow, he can recount how it feels to wind up with an empty wallet the next morning.

Haymen achieved his remarkable monetary multiplication at Belmont park yesterday, but whereas he trusted the ponies with success, he made the error of trusting newly-found friends. Five acquaintances whom he met at the race track asked him to celebrate his good fortune with them at a nearby tavern.

Haymen agreed good-naturedly and accepted the lift offered by one of them who drove a car. A few minutes and several blocks later he was without money, watch and gold ring. But he returned his empty wallet before dumping him from the automobile.

WILLKIE TOSSES HAT INTO RING FOR PRESIDENCY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Wendell L. Willkie, defeated candidate for president in 1940, tossed his hat into the ring today for the 1944 nomination.

Willkie criticized President Roosevelt's administration for "disgraceful" manipulations on the home front and for a short-sighted foreign policy prior to Pearl Harbor.

The Hoosier politician said he would accept the G. O. P. nomination or "serve in the ranks" if his party would "drive heart and soul for liberal objectives such as I seek to outline."

Willkie described this liberalism as the spirit that dominated the Republican party for 70 years when it "led the American people to constantly expanding horizons."

"A better management of the home front," he declared, "would greatly shorten the war."

Willkie at the same time disclosed that his views have already been expressed to more than 100 Republican leaders in 22 states.

In that connection, he announced that he would speak in St. Louis on October 15 and to discuss "in very direct language some of the problems of our country's domestic economy and foreign relations."

BARUCH CALLED ON DAD DRAFT

Adviser To FDR Asked To Explain Charges Of Manpower Waste

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—Sponsors of legislation to defer drafting of fathers delayed senate debate today to make a further investigation of charges of waste of manpower in war plants.

The senate military affairs committee, which reported the Wheeler father deferment bill favorably last July, called Bernard M. Baruch, confidential adviser to President Roosevelt to testify tomorrow afternoon. Senate debate on the measure probably will begin Thursday.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., demanded that Baruch be summoned because of the report he made to War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes on Pacific coast conditions in which he charged a great wastage of manpower.

"It is criminal to draft fathers when there is the admitted hoarding and wasting of labor," said Wheeler.

Administration leaders believed that testimony of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, assured defeat of the Wheeler bill.

Wheeler, however, insisted that the testimony of neither man changed conditions. Each, he said, refused to endorse the drafting of (Continued on Page Two)

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 21—The first state prison in the country to receive a war contract from the government held official confirmation that it not only did its job but did it well.

The citation accompanying the award declared the institution to be a national leader in the output of material which it was assigned to produce.

Badoglio Fires Back At Benito

Italians Told Sole Hope Of Nation Rests In Ouster Of Germans

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER AT AN ADVANCED COMMAND POST, Sept. 20—(Delayed)—Premier Pietro Badoglio in a biting reply to Benito Mussolini's recent broadcast declared that the Germans with Mussolini's assistance had enslaved the Italians, taking them into a war they never wanted, and stated that "the more rapidly we throw the Germans out of Italy, the faster will come our liberation and return to our national life."

Marshal Badoglio spoke from a small station in Bari last night and it was believed that his speech was not heard outside of Italy.

Badoglio disclosed that Mussolini himself had planned to "cut adrift from the Germans by September 15, because Hitler had betrayed him." He also revealed that Mussolini had thanked him for saving him from injury following Mussolini's ouster by the Fascist party.

In a comprehensive review of Italy's recent history, Premier Badoglio bitterly accused the "homicidal Germans" of rapidly robbing Italy of murdering Italian soldiers, and of planning to annihilate whole Italian divisions when the opportune time arrived.

"I consider it essential that I should tell the Italians certain truths," Badoglio began.

"After the conquest of its empire, the Italian nation had sufficient work to last at least a century in organization of the empire to full production. Instead, at the request of the Germans, Mussolini threw the country into a new war, which no one wanted, or approved, and which was not backed by hatred toward the new enemy."

Badoglio said the country had not recovered from the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, and was completely unprepared for a new war. The army was still equipped with 1914-1918 weapons, lacking raw materials "while it was obvious we would have as enemies the richest (Continued on Page Two)

DRIVE IN ITALY JUST PRELUDE TO BIG PUSH

Mediterranean, North African Moves Never Regarded As Second Front

BRITISH CHEER LEADER

Action So Far Only Leading To Main War On Nazis, Prime Minister Says

LONDON, Sept. 21—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today bluntly told Germany it has forfeited the right to lenient armistice terms as granted to conquered Italy.

In a lengthy report on the war and its progress during which he characterized Allied blows in the Mediterranean as mere preludes to the main attack on Germany from the west, Churchill echoed the promise of President Roosevelt that Prussian militarism as well as Nazism must be destroyed.

Churchill bitterly attacked the Nazis for turning Italy into a battleground for Nazi rear-guards "to be pillaged and terrorized in Hitler's fury and revenge."

The Italian people, he said, "will be rescued from their state of servitude and degradation and will be enabled, in due course, to regain their rightful place among the free democracies of the modern world..."

Germans Different
"I may be asked, would you apply this line of argument to the German people," the prime minister continued.

"Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism are the two main elements in German life which must be absolutely destroyed."

"They must be rooted out of Europe..."

"Until this is done there are no sacrifices we will not make and no lengths in violence to which we will not go..."

"I am sure the British, American and Russian peoples will this time take steps to put it beyond the power of Prussia or all of Germany to come at them with pent-up vengeance and long nurtured plans."

Commons Cheer
This portion of the prime minister's long account of his stewardship was interrupted constantly by bursts of cheering.

Churchill was frank in his estimate of the Mediterranean offensive as a "preliminary."

He never regarded the North African and Mediterranean campaign as a substitute for opening a second front, the prime minister said.

A packed house greeted his appearance on the floor with a rousing cheer.

The address was the first by the prime minister since his return to England following a six-week absence in Canada and the United States for war strategy conferences with President Roosevelt and other Allied officials and military leaders.

Preliminary Moves
Churchill began his address by explaining that the campaign in North Africa and against Italy was preliminary to a main attack on Germany.

"I never regarded this African operation as a substitute for a direct attack across the channel on the Germans in France and (Continued on Page Two)

STRATEGIC TOWN OF EBOLI FALLS TO AMERICANS

Second Showdown Fight Looms As Kesselring Reforms Line

Russians Continue Advance And Japs Plastered In Pacific

By International News Service
German forces on the Salerno battlefield wheeled into a sharp retreat today and the United States Fifth Army seized the strategic town of Eboli, 20 miles inland.

Under the impact of steady pressure from the Allies, who pounded the Nazi lines ceaselessly from land, sea and air, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring swung the entire left wing of his defense line backward to new positions beyond the Eboli area.

Kesselring drew on past experience to extricate himself from a perilous situation and reform his lines elsewhere. He withdrew from the whole south end of the battlefield to escape the growing threat of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army which is rapidly advancing northward.

Allies Move Up

American and British troops edged steadily forward east of Monte Corvino. The Allies found the roads demolished in the Eboli area to protect the German withdrawal. In addition, the enemy used small numbers of mechanized troops for their rear guard action to slow Allied progress.

There was every indication that another showdown battle will occur as soon as Kesselring has reformed his line in conjunction with other German forces on the east coast.

German prisoners meanwhile said that Allied air force attacks had been a dominant factor in the battle of Italy. One officer said his company lost 50 percent of its men.

With seizure of Eboli, Allied forces came into control of all three roads leading from the Sorrento peninsula into Naples, immediate objective of the present drive.

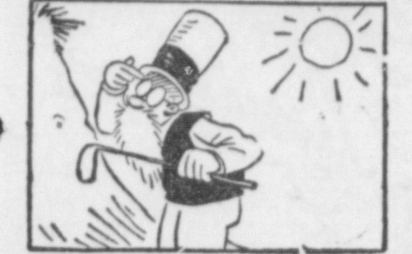

Trouble For Huns

Loss of the Salerno battle foreshadowed dire consequences for Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces. The German general swung the entire left wing of his defense line backward in a retreat to new positions beyond the Eboli area, the communiqué indicated.

Steady pressure along the battle-line of the combined American Fifth and British Eighth Armies proved too powerful for the Axis troops which had been pounded ceaselessly by ground, aerial and naval forces.

J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co., another of Circleville's principal industries, stepped into the attack on the Axis Tuesday by subscribing $50,000 for purchase of Series C tax notes with the Pickaway county War Finance Committee.

The subscription was entered by Robert D. Musser, general manager of the plant.

BARUCH CALLED ON DAD DRAFT

Adviser To FDR Asked To Explain Charges Of Manpower Waste

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—Sponsors of legislation to defer drafting of fathers delayed senate debate today to make a further investigation of charges of waste of manpower in war plants.

The senate military affairs committee, which reported the Wheeler father deferment bill favorably last July, called Bernard M. Baruch, confidential adviser to President Roosevelt to testify tomorrow afternoon. Senate debate on the measure probably will begin Thursday.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., demanded that Baruch be summoned because of the report he made to War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes on Pacific coast conditions in which he charged a great wastage of manpower.

"It is criminal to draft fathers when there is the admitted hoarding and wasting of labor," said Wheeler.

Administration leaders believed that testimony of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, assured defeat of the Wheeler bill.

PRISONERS WIN 'A' PENNANT FOR FINE WAR WORK

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 21—The first state prison in the country to receive a war contract from the government held official confirmation that it not only did its job but did it well.

Flying from the flagpole of the Clinton prison at nearby Dannemora today, is the war production Board's "A" pennant awarded in recognition of outstanding service.

The citation accompanying the award declared the institution to be a national leader in the output of material which it was assigned to produce.

Badoglio Fires Back At Benito

Italians Told Sole Hope Of Nation Rests In Ouster Of Germans

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER AT AN ADVANCED COMMAND POST, Sept. 20—(Delayed)—Premier Pietro Badoglio in a biting reply to Benito Mussolini's recent broadcast declared that the Germans with Mussolini's assistance had enslaved the Italians, taking them into a war they never wanted, and stated that "the more rapidly we throw the Germans out of Italy, the faster will come our liberation and return to our national life."

Marshal Badoglio spoke from a small station in Bari last night and it was believed that his speech was not heard outside of Italy.

Badoglio disclosed that Mussolini himself had planned to "cut adrift from the Germans by September 15, because Hitler had betrayed him." He also revealed that Mussolini had thanked him for saving him from injury following Mussolini's ousting by the Fascist party.

In a comprehensive review of Italy's recent history, Premier Badoglio bitterly accused the "homicidal Germans" of rapidly robbing Italy of murdering Italian soldiers, and of planning to annihilate whole Italian divisions when the opportune time arrived.

"I consider it essential that I should tell the Italians certain truths," Badoglio began.

"After the conquest of its empire, the Italian nation had sufficient work to last at least a century in organization of the empire to full production. Instead, at the request of the Germans, Mussolini threw the country into a new war, which no one wanted, or approved, and which was not backed by hatred toward the new enemy."

Badoglio said the country had not recovered from the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, and was completely unprepared for a new war. The army was still equipped with 1914-1918 weapons, lacking raw materials "while it was obvious we would have as enemies the richest (Continued on Page Two)

DRIVE IN ITALY JUST PRELUDE TO BIG PUSH

Mediterranean, North African Moves Never Regarded As Second Front

BRITISH CHEER LEADER

Action So Far Only Leading To Main War On Nazis, Prime Minister Says

LONDON, Sept. 21—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today bluntly told Germany it has forfeited the right to lenient armistice terms as granted to conquered Italy.

In a lengthy report on the war and its progress during which he characterized Allied blows in the Mediterranean as mere preludes to the main attack on Germany from the west, Churchill echoed the promise of President Roosevelt that Prussian militarism as well as Nazism must be destroyed.

Churchill bitterly attacked the Nazis for turning Italy into a battleground for Nazi rear-guards "to be pillaged and terrorized in Hitler's fury and revenge."

The Italian people, he said, "will be rescued from their state of servitude and degradation and will be enabled, in due course, to regain their rightful place among the free democracies of the modern world..."

Germans Different

"I may be asked, would you apply this line of argument to the German people," the prime minister continued.

"Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism are the two main elements in German life which must be absolutely destroyed."

"They must be rooted out of Europe..."

"Until this is done there are no sacrifices we will not make and no lengths in violence to which we will not go..."

"I am sure the British, American and Russian peoples will this time take steps to put it beyond the power of Prussia or all of Germany to come at them with pent-up vengeance and long nurtured plans."

Commons Cheer

This portion of the prime minister's long account of his stewardship was interrupted constantly by bursts of cheering.

Churchill was frank in his estimate of the Mediterranean offensive as a "preliminary."

He never regarded the North African and Mediterranean campaign as a substitute for opening a second front, the prime minister said.

A packed house greeted his appearance on the floor with a rousing cheer.

The address was the first by the prime minister since his return to England following a six-week absence in Canada and the United States for war strategy conferences with President Roosevelt and other Allied officials and military leaders.

Preliminary Moves

Churchill began his address by explaining that the campaign in North Africa and against Italy was preliminary to a main attack on Germany.

"I never regarded this African operation as a substitute for a direct attack across the channel on the Germans in France and (Continued on Page Two) it represents a true cross-section of the political thought of America. It was for this reason that all of the politicians of the nation were following the deliberations of this meeting.

The meeting was certain to cause some embarrassment to the administration of President Roosevelt in Washington. First of all, Roane Waring, retiring national commander of the Legion, appointed a post war planning commission of 15 members.

Plan For Peace

Among these members were three former national commanders of the Legion. But conspicuous by its absence was the name of Paul V. McNutt, former national commander of the Legion and now war manpower commissioner in Washington.

This American Legion planning commission of the future was composed of prominent men generally opposed to the policies of President Roosevelt.

It was Waring, an advocate of states' rights and an avowed opponent of Washington "regimentation," who named this commission. Nearly every one of its 15 members was opposed to the post war program of Mr. Roosevelt.

This commission includes such outstanding Americans as Louis Johnson, former national commander of the Legion, one time assistant secretary of war, and head of the United States mission to India.

Other members of the commission included: Ray Murphy, New York, past national commander; William H. Dow, Midland, Mich., president of the Dow Chemical Corp.; Walter Hoving of New York; Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts; and Leonard Ayers of Cleveland, noted economist.

Despite the fact that McNutt was not on the commission, he delivered an address to the convention during the day.

McNutt declared in his speech that mothers and fathers of America must be prepared to accept great losses. This was the way he put it:

"We must be prepared to accept war casualties such as we never had to take during the first World War. You men of the Argonne, of Belleau Wood, of Chateau Thierry, know that war is a cruel and murderous business. And that, unless you crush your enemy like a rattlesnake, he will crush you.

"Right now, we are in the midst of a nationwide debate as to whether it is necessary to draft fathers into our armed forces. I dare say that, here in this convention, there are some differences of opinion on this subject, but I know that many people throughout the nation believe we shall never have to use even the forces we have already mobilized, in order to defeat Hitler and Japan."

But McNutt, in the next breath, said, like Mr. Roosevelt and other leaders of the war effort in Washington, that the draft of fathers was necessary.

Waring talked before McNutt. He said that "we face again another year of total war."

"We must afford the soldiers returning to civil life an opportunity to select and follow the way of his own choosing in his own chosen avocation," Waring stated.

By this, Waring meant that he hoped every veteran of World War II would be given a chance to have a job once he is discharged from the army. The Legion, by its resolutions, was prepared to demand that every soldier who leaves the army after World War II ends, be given a year's pay.

The most that the Roosevelt administration in Washington promised, was three months' pay. This resolution demanding 12 months' pay for discharged soldiers struck something of a keynote in this convention. Most of the post war policies of the Roosevelt administration were under fire.

The convention will end Thursday.

SIR KINGSLEY WOOD OF BRITISH CABINET DIES

LONDON, Sept. 21—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood died today. His capabilities as an administrator were proved in his capacity first as postmaster general and later as minister of health. In the former post he popularized the use of telephones in Britain by introducing calls anywhere in Great Britain for the price of one shilling after 7 p. m. He was credited with a big rise in the use of telephones by means of publicizing postoffice services.

As minister of health Sir Kingsley sponsored a move to close all stores at an early hour in the evening to guard the welfare of the employees.

Sir Kingsley began his career as a barrister, starting his law career at the age of 22. He was knighted in 1918, the same year he became a member of parliament.

and most powerful states in the world."

"During these three years of war," he continued, "the Germans always considered us an inferior people. They ransacked our provinces, removing goods of all kinds, forced Italians to live on rations which were quite insufficient and well below the German standard, contributed to depreciation of our monetary values by spending money extravagantly throughout the country. Above all, Germany always insisted on taking command of our armed forces."

"The war as waged by the Germans was not a war of alliance, but only a German war. African operations followed by Italian occupation represented German advanced posts in the same way as France, the Ukraine, Greece, Romania and other occupied countries. During these years the Italian army was dispersed by Mussolini, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, over the whole of Europe to defend the province of Croatia, Greece, Crete, and sent to fight in Russia."

"No supreme commander of armed forces should ever lead his country into such a situation, and this the Italians will not forget, especially as present events have clearly demonstrated that this dispersal of the Italian army coincided with the diabolical plan of placing German divisions next to ours in order to annihilate them at the opportune moment."

"When the enemy arrived at the very gates of Italy and attacked Sicily, there were no more Italian divisions to defend our sacred soil."

"What was Italy's position on July 25? All colonies were lost. The enemy was in Sicily. The army was dispersed everywhere. The battle fleet scotered in a narrow channel. The merchant navy almost entirely destroyed. The air force almost non-existent. Materials which at first were supplied by Germany, were diminishing. Railroad junctions and whole sectors of our cities were destroyed. Supply of provisions for the south was impossible. Industry was considerably reduced by aerial bombardment. The food situation was growing worse. A national debt of many hundred million lira — and no real hope of victory."

"In the midst of this situation the chief organ of the Fascist party voted against its head, and the king could only form a new government meeting the wishes of the whole population."

U-BOAT CAPTAIN WISHES TO MEET DARING YANKEE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 21—U-boat Captain Guggenberg, who is credited with sinking the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal early in the war, today expressed a desire to meet the American airman who sank his submarine recently in South American waters.

Guggenberg, now a prisoner in the American hospital at Recife with five of his crew, said the American pilot dived repeatedly through terrific anti-aircraft fire to release his bombs and rake the sub with machine-gun fire.

The bearded U-boat commander disclosed that of the 15 men who escaped from the sinking submarine after the American plane tossed their life preservers, nine were devoured by sharks while awaiting rescue.

Still arrogant and claiming he sank thousands of tons of Allied shipping, Guggenberg expressed resentment at reports that he could have saved his sub by crash-diving but under estimated the daring of the American pilot who dived as low as 50 feet to attack.

In the mining industry one man is called the "powder monkey." He is the man usually designated to handle stores of giant powder, as dynamite is known commercially.

DRIVE IN ITALY JUST PRELUDE TO BIG PUSH

Mediterranean, North African Moves Never Regarded As Second Front

the low countries," the prime minister said.

"Contrarily, the opening of this new front in the Mediterranean was always intended as an essential preliminary to the main attack upon Germany."

Churchill said that when he visited Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin last year the marshal of Russia's armed forces told the prime minister he was confident of the ability of the Red army to withstand the German attack.

"And he revealed to me the counter-stroke by which he intended to relieve Stalingrad," Churchill continued.

Set Italian Drive

"When I visited President Roosevelt in May," Churchill said, "we set before ourselves as the principal objective to knock Italy out of the war this year."

"For a whole year we and our great Allies have had almost unbroken successes on land, at sea and in the air," he told his audience.

He then dealt lengthily with Allied mastery of the air and the havoc wrought on Germany "which noticeably is crippling the power of the enemy."

He said the Royal Air Force at present is maintaining the action nearly 50 per cent more aircraft than Germany, excluding the rapidly expanding weight of the United States Army Air Force which already is in action on a great scale in Great Britain.

The prime minister said no Allied ships had been sunk by U-boats in any part of the world for the first fortnight in September. This, he said, was "unprecedented in the whole history of U-boat warfare in this and the last war."

Subs Active

He revealed, however, that Nazi submarines again have become active and said that one Allied convoy is being attacked at the present time. In the four months ending September 18, the prime minister disclosed, no merchant vessel was sunk by enemy action in the North Atlantic.

Churchill said that the increase in aircraft available to Britain now exceeds the corresponding German supply by more than four to one.

The growth of the Allies continues and "we shall... be in a position when the methodical destruction of every enemy building will become possible," he said.

"Complete strategic air domination of Germany by Anglo-American air forces is not necessarily beyond our reach in 1944 with consequences... which must be profound," he added.

Churchill revealed that Germany is using a new type of aerial bomb to attack shipping at close quarters. He said it was "sort of a rocket assisted glider which is released from considerable height and apparently is guided toward its targets by the parent aircraft."

Then he said "it might be the Germans are developing other weapons on novel lines."

Tribute To Soviet

He paid enthusiastic tribute to the Soviet armies "who have advanced on a thousand mile front, driving before them with prodigious slaughter hordes of Germans."

Concerning the Soviet successes, he added:

"We must not in any circumstances allow these favorable tendencies to weaken our effort or lead us to suppose our danger has passed or the war is coming to an end."

"Contrarily, we must expect the terrible foe we are smiting so heavily will make frenzied efforts to retaliate."

The credit balance of new ship building over losses of all kinds since the beginning of the war now exceeds 6,000,000 tons. We soon shall have replaced all losses suffered by the United Nations since the beginning of the war, Churchill pointed out.

Praises America

In a tribute to American shipbuilding he said that United States shipbuilding campaign "fulfilled all that was hoped for it and more."

He also gave praise to the part played by American aircraft and Yankee crews in the coastal command U-boat hunts.

The lull in the battle of the Atlantic, he disclosed, enabled the Allies to bring into the European theatre the largest possible convoys to replenish the resources of Britain.

Referring to the Japanese evacuation of Kiska in the American Aleutian islands, he said:

"Here is a new feature in the resistance of Japan. In place of fighting to the last man they evacuated..."

"The fundamental fact in the war against Japan is the steady diminution of Japanese shipping and the wasting of their assets in this direction..."

"Japan's shipping losses certainly exceed any means they have or can ever have of replacing them."

LOCAL SOLDIER WRITES ABOUT OUSTING JAPS

Private Raymond Lemaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Farry Lemaster, 504 South Court street, came through the fighting on Munda, New Guinea, without injury. A letter received Tuesday by his parents is the first they have had from him in several months. Until they received the letter they did not know he had been in the bitter struggle for the vital Pacific base.

Young Lemaster is a member of the 43rd Division which participated with the 37th Division in conquest of the Japanese.

The youth writes that he has received mail from his parents and in reply to one of his mother's questions concerning what he had been doing he said: "I have been doing a little fighting on Munda. It wasn't an easy job. Those Japs dig in the ground and you sure have a hard time getting them out. But you can take my word for it," the youth wrote, "we got them out."

Numerous other Circleville and Pickaway county youths participated in the fight for Munda, most of them being with the 37th Division. Corporal Freddie Smith of Circleville was wounded there. Only a few persons have received letters from the youths who participated in the fighting which carried placid from General Douglas MacArthur and other Army leaders.

artillery forces of Gen. Eisenhower since the two Allied armies formed their conjunction several days ago.

A new Allied front in the Dodecanese islands was opened today when Royal Air Force planes landed on the island of Cos and seized the airfield.

A brief official communique said that British fighter planes had "started operations." Italian troops on Cos are cooperating with the British, the announcement said.

"Numerous German attacks were repelled," the statement added.

Near Nazi Bases

Military officials in Cairo pointed out that seizure of the Cos airport places the Allies in close striking distance of Nazi bases in Greece and the Balkans.

Cos, which lies due north of Carpathos, is one of the largest islands in the Dodecanese. Its airfield is large and well developed.

Meanwhile heavy fighting was in progress on the island of Corsica where 40,000 Italian soldiers joined French troops and guerrillas battling German forces who went there from Sardinia.

The French were in possession of the town of Ajaccio, capital of Corsica, which the Germans had pillaged before being driven inland.

The Britain-based aerial war on Nazi-held western Europe continued today with attacks by U. S. Marauders escorted by British Spitfires, on enemy airfields at Beauvais and Lille in France. Earlier in the morning strong formations of Allied bombers were reported soaring toward Boulogne.

In Russia, German communications at the rear of Smolensk, vital Nazi bastion, were under peril as a result of a sudden Red army thrust northwest of the city. The Red army overran Velizh, 65 miles from Smolensk. Besides flanking Smolensk, the drive threatened Vitebsk, 48 miles further northwest, an important junction on the railroad line from Leningrad to Odessa which forms the backbone of Nazi defenses in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet thrust at the northern end of an active battlefield now 900 miles long was accompanied by sweeping gains in all sectors from the Smolensk front to the Sea of Azov. More than 1,130 towns and villages were enveloped in 24 hours. The Soviets cut the Kiev-Chernigov highway and advanced to within eight miles of Melitopol, last station on the railroad line out of the Crimea.

In the southwest Pacific, the Allied pincer movement from New Guinea and the Solomons toward the big Japanese base at Rabaul closed tighter with a furious aerial assault on the Cape Gloucester airfield guarding Rabaul. Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers pounded the airfield with 94 tons of bombs.

In addition, long-range fighters attacked another New Britain airfield and strafed enemy positions and surface craft. Mitchell medium bombers dropped 22 tons of explosives on enemy installations near Finschhafen in New Guinea and other bombers soared to Ambon island, west of New Guinea, to attack a Jap seaplane base.

Admiral King said that the American fleet would "expose itself" in the Pacific—plainly foreshadowing an effort to engage the entire Japanese fleet in combat.

While Gen. Marshall said that he preferred younger men in the army—and generally speaking unmarried men—he opposed calling single men between 38 and 45 into service again.

MAYOR JAILS TWO

Two Circleville men were sent to Pickaway county jail Monday by Mayor Ben H. Gordon for failure to pay fines for intoxication and disorderly conduct. They were James Ladd, fined $20 and costs after disturbing North Court street residents early Sunday morning, and Chester Porter fined $15 and cost for intoxication.

MRS. FISSELL RECOVERING

Mrs. Miller Fissell, Seyfert avenue, is expected to be brought home Tuesday evening from Doctor's hospital, Columbus, where she submitted Monday to a tonsil operation. Mrs. Fissell is stenographer in the office of Auditor Forrest Short.

ORNEY YOUNG ASKS RELEASE FROM PRISON

Orney Young, 51, of near Amanda, who was sentenced by Judge Meeker Terwilliger just a year ago to serve one to 20 years in prison for the hit-skip death of Thomas Paolucci, 19, will be granted a parole hearing November 2 at the London prison farm.

Young has served the minimum under the one to 20 year sentence and because of good behavior, is eligible for parole.

The Fairfield county man was caught by Sheriff Charles Radcliff on the Ringgold pike after he had fled North Court street where his car had killed Paolucci, a civilian employe at Lockbourne army air base. The youth's home was Me-haffey, Pa. He had been rooming here. Young said he was intoxicated at the time and said he did not know his car had struck any one although he noticed a bump where the car had hit what he thought was another car.

Indicted by the Pickaway county grand jury, Young pleaded guilty.

Shortly after being taken to the Ohio penitentiary, Columbus, he was transferred to the prison farm.

The campaign chairman urged the public to make its purchases in larger amounts even to the point of denying themselves certain things considered necessities.

"Families of soldiers and sailors are taking more interest in the drive and are buying all the bonds they can," Mr. Will pointed out. "But many other persons do not appear interested in putting up the money necessary for backing the attack."

Mr. Will called attention to the premiere of "Thank Your Lucky Stars" which will be shown at 11 p. m. Thursday at the Grand theatre. All persons who have bought bonds Monday or Tuesday and who buy Wednesday and Thursday this week will be admitted free. The picture, starring Eddie Cantor and a host of other stars, will have its first showing in Circleville, its release date not being for two days after the presentation here.

The War Loan committee's Special Activities committee headed by Joe W. Adkins, Jr., is handling details concerning the movie.

KENTUCKY MARRIAGES END IN LOCAL COURT

Two Greenup, Ky., marriages went on the rocks Tuesday in common pleas court, two Pickaway county husbands filing divorce petitions. Both charge gross neglect of duty.

One suit was brought by Edward Leatherwood, Ashville, against Mary Leatherwood, also of Ashville. The couple was married April 16, 1942, in Greenup and has one child.

The second petition was brought by Melvin J. Kneec, who left Monday for training for the Seabees, Navy construction unit, against Bessie Kneec, Columbus. They were wed September 5, 1939 in Greenup and also have one child.

against it. It is not a problem of consciences. It is a dilemma that is before the men of the church. It is not a problem of faith...

"If it were true—and it is not—that there exists an incompatibility between the Catholic faith and the Fascist faith, and if we were forced to choose between the Catholic faith and the Fascist faith—we, by the side of our German comrades, would choose the Fascist faith."

Although the puppet Fascist government set up by the Nazis previously has excommunicated the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel for agreeing to an armistice to the Allies, the Berlin broadcast marked the first direct attack on the Vatican.

LEGION PLANS BIG FIGHT FOR FREE BUSINESS

Greatest Economic, Political Uprising Since 1932 Seen At Omaha

(Continued from Page One) it represents a true cross-section of the political thought of America. It was for this reason that all of the politicians of the nation were following the deliberations of this meeting.

The meeting was certain to cause some embarrassment to the administration of President Roosevelt in Washington. First of all, Roane Waring, retiring national commander of the Legion, appointed a post war planning commission of 15 members.

Plan For Peace Among these members were three former national commanders of the Legion. But conspicuous by its absence was the name of Paul V. McNutt, former national commander of the Legion and now war manpower commissioner in Washington.

This American Legion planning commission of the future was composed of prominent men generally opposed to the policies of President Roosevelt.

It was Waring, an advocate of states' rights and an avowed opponent of Washington "regimentation," who named this commission. Nearly every one of its 15 members was opposed to the post war program of Mr. Roosevelt.

This commission includes such outstanding Americans as Louis Johnson, former national commander of the Legion, one time assistant secretary of war, and head of the United States mission to India.

Other members of the commission included: Ray Murphy, New York, past national commander; William H. Dow, Midland, Mich., president of the Dow Chemical Corp.; Walter Hoving of New York; Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts; and Leonard Ayers of Cleveland, noted economist.

Despite the fact that McNutt was not on the commission, he delivered an address to the convention during the day.

McNutt declared in his speech that mothers and fathers of America must be prepared to accept great losses. This was the way he put it:

"We must be prepared to accept war casualties such as we never had to take during the first World War. You men of the Argonne, of Belleau Wood, of Chateau Thierry, know that war is a cruel and murderous business. And that, unless you crush your enemy like a rattlesnake, he will crush you."

"Right now, we are in the midst of a nationwide debate as to whether it is necessary to draft fathers into our armed forces. I dare say that, here in this convention, there are some differences of opinion on this subject, but I know that many people throughout the nation believe we shall never have to use even the forces we have already mobilized, in order to defeat Hitler and Japan."

But McNutt, in the next breath, said, like Mr. Roosevelt and other leaders of the war effort in Washington, that the draft of fathers was necessary.

Waring talked before McNutt. He said that "we face again another year of total war."

"We must afford the soldiers returning to civil life an opportunity to select and follow the way of his own choosing in his own chosen avocation," Waring stated.

By this, Waring meant that he hoped every veteran of World War II would be given a chance to have a job once he is discharged from the army. The Legion, by its resolutions, was prepared to demand that every soldier who leaves the army after World War II ends, be given a year's pay.

The most that the Roosevelt administration in Washington promised, was three months' pay. This resolution demanding 12 months' pay for discharged soldiers struck something of a keynote in this convention. Most of the post war policies of the Roosevelt administration were under fire.

The convention will end Thursday.

SIR KINGSLEY WOOD OF BRITISH CABINET DIES

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood died today. His capabilities as an administrator were proved in his capacity first as postmaster general and later as minister of health. In the former post he popularized the use of telephones in Britain by introducing calls anywhere in Great Britain for the price of one shilling after 7 p. m. He was credited with a big rise in the use of telephones by means of publicizing postoffice services.

As minister of health Sir Kingsley sponsored a move to close all stores at an early hour in the evening to guard the welfare of the employees.

Sir Kingsley began his career as a barrister, starting his law career at the age of 22. He was knighted in 1918, the same year he became a member of parliament.

Badoglio Fires Back At Benito

"During these three years of war," he continued, "the Germans always considered us an inferior people. They ransacked our provinces, removing goods of all kinds, forced Italians to live on rations which were quite insufficient and well below the German standard, contributed to depreciation of our monetary values by spending money extravagantly throughout the country. Above all, Germany always insisted on taking command of our armed forces."

"The war as waged by the Germans was not a war of alliance, but only a German war. African operations followed by Italian occupation represented German advanced posts in the same way as France, the Ukraine, Greece, Romania and other occupied countries. During these years the Italian army was dispersed by Mussolini, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, over the whole of Europe to defend the province of Croatia, Greece, Crete, and sent to fight in Russia."

"No supreme commander of armed forces should ever lead his country into such a situation, and this the Italians will not forget, especially as present events have clearly demonstrated that this dispersal of the Italian army coincided with the diabolical plan of placing German divisions next to ours in order to annihilate them at the opportune moment."

"When the enemy arrived at the very gates of Italy and attacked Sicily, there were no more Italian divisions to defend our sacred soil."

"What was Italy's position on July 25? All colonies were lost. The enemy was in Sicily. The army was dispersed everywhere. The battle fleet sorely tied in a narrow channel. The merchant navy almost entirely destroyed. The air force almost non-existent. Materials which at first were supplied by Germany, were diminishing. Railroad junctions and whole sectors of our cities were destroyed. Supply of provisions for the south was impossible. Industry was considerably reduced by aerial bombardment. The food situation was growing worse. A national debt of many hundred million lire — and no real hope of victory."

"In the midst of this situation the chief organ of the Fascist party voted against its head, and the king could only form a new government meeting the wishes of the whole population."

U-BOAT CAPTAIN WISHES TO MEET DARING YANKEE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 21.—U-boat Captain Guggenberg, who is credited with sinking the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal early in the war, today expressed a desire to meet the American airman who sank his submarine recently in South American waters.

Guggenberg, now a prisoner in the American hospital at Recife with five of his crew, said the American pilot dived repeatedly through terrific anti-aircraft fire to release his bombs and rake the ship with machine-gun fire.

The bearded U-boat commander disclosed that of the 15 men who escaped from the sinking submarine after the American plane tossed them life preservers, nine were devoured by sharks while awaiting rescue.

Still arrogant and claiming he sank thousands of tons of Allied shipping, Guggenberg expressed resentment at reports that he could have saved his sub by crash-diving but under estimated the daring of the American pilot who dived as low as 50 feet to attack.

DRIVE IN ITALY JUST PRELUDE TO BIG PUSH

Mediterranean, North African Moves Never Regarded As Second Front

"Contrarily, the opening of this new front in the Mediterranean was always intended as an essential preliminary to the main attack upon Germany."

Churchill said that when he visited Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin last year the marshal of Russia's armed forces told the prime minister he was confident of the ability of the Red army to withstand the German attack.

"And he revealed to me the counter-stroke by which he intended to relieve Stalingrad," Churchill continued.

Set Italian Drive "When I visited President Roosevelt in May," Churchill said, "we set before ourselves as the principal objective to knock Italy out of the war this year."

"For a whole year we and our great Allies have had almost unbroken successes on land, at sea and in the air," he told his audience.

He then dealt lengthily with Allied mastery of the air and the havoc wrought on Germany "which noticeably is crippling the power of the enemy."

He said the Royal Air Force at present is maintaining the action nearly 50 per cent more aircraft than Germany, excluding the rapidly expanding weight of the United States Army Air Force which already is in action on a great scale in Great Britain.

The prime minister said no Allied ships had been sunk by U-boats in any part of the world for the first fortnight in September. This, he said, was "unprecedented in the whole history of U-boat warfare in this and the last war."

Subs Active He revealed, however, that Nazi submarines again have become active and said that one Allied convoy is being attacked at the present time. In the four months ending September 18, the prime minister disclosed, no merchant vessel was sunk by enemy action in the North Atlantic.

Churchill said that the increase in aircraft available to Britain now exceeds the corresponding German supply by more than four to one.

The growth of the Allies continues and "we shall... be in a position when the methodical destruction of every enemy building will become possible," he said.

"Complete strategic air domination of Germany by Anglo-American air forces is not necessarily beyond our reach in 1944 with consequences... which must be profound," he added.

Churchill revealed that Germany is using a new type of aerial bomb to attack shipping at close quarters. He said it was "sort of a rocket assisted glider which is released from considerable height and apparently is guided toward its targets by the parent aircraft."

Then he said "it might be the Germans are developing other weapons on novel lines."

Tribute To Soviet He paid enthusiastic tribute to the Soviet armies "who have advanced on a thousand mile front, driving before them with prodigious slaughter hordes of Germans."

Concerning the Soviet successes, he added:

"We must not in any circumstances allow these favorable tendencies to weaken our effort or lead us to suppose our danger has passed or the war is coming to an end."

"Contrarily, we must expect the terrible foe we are smiting so heavily will make frenzied efforts to retaliate."

The credit balance of new ship building over losses of all kinds since the beginning of the war now exceeds 6,000,000 tons. We soon shall have replaced all losses suffered by the United Nations since the beginning of the war, Churchill pointed out.

Praises America In a tribute to American shipbuilding he said that United States shipbuilding campaign "fulfilled all that was hoped from it and more."

He also gave praise to the part played by American aircraft and Yankee crews in the coastal command's U-boat hunts.

The lull in the battle of the Atlantic, he disclosed, enabled the Allies to bring into the European theatre the largest possible convoys to replenish the resources of Britain.

Referring to the Japanese evacuation of Kiska in the American Aleutian islands, he said:

"Here is a new feature in the resistance of Japan. In place of fighting to the last man they evacuated..."

"The fundamental fact in the war against Japan is the steady diminution of Japanese shipping and the wasting of their assets in this direction..."

"Japan's shipping losses certainly exceed any means they have or can ever have of replace-

LOCAL SOLDIER WRITES ABOUT OUSTING JAPS

Private Raymond Lemaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Farry Lemaster, 504 South Court street, came through the fighting on Munda, New Guinea, without injury. A letter received Tuesday by his parents is the first they have had from him in several months. Until they received the letter they did not know he had been in the bitter struggle for the vital Pacific base.

Young Lemaster is a member of the 43rd Division which participated with the 37th Division in conquest of the Japanese.

The youth writes that he has received mail from his parents and in reply to one of his mother's questions concerning what he had been doing he said: "I have been doing a little fighting on Munda. It wasn't an easy job. Those Japs dig in the ground and you sure have a hard time getting them out. But you can take my word for it," the youth wrote, "we got them out."

Numerous other Circleville and Pickaway county youths participated in the fight for Munda, most of them being with the 37th Division. Corporal Freddie Smith of Circleville was wounded there. Only a few persons have received letters from the youths who participated in the fighting which carried plaudits from General Douglas MacArthur and other Army leaders.

A new Allied front in the Dodecanese islands was opened today when Royal Air Force planes landed on the island of Cos and seized the airfield.

A brief official communique said that British fighter planes had "started operations." Italian troops on Cos are cooperating with the British, the announcement said.

"Numerous German attacks were repelled," the statement added.

Near Nazi Bases Military officials in Cairo pointed out that seizure of the Cos airfield places the Allies in close striking distance of Nazi bases in Greece and the Balkans.

Cos, which lies due north of Carpathos, is one of the largest islands in the Dodecanese. Its airfield is large and well developed.

Meanwhile heavy fighting was in progress on the island of Corsica where 40,000 Italian soldiers joined French troops and guerrillas battling German forces who went there from Sardinia.

The French were in possession of the town of Ajaccio, capital of Corsica, which the Germans had pillaged before being driven inland.

The Britain-based aerial war on Nazi-held western Europe continued today with attacks by U. S. Marauders escorted by British Spitfires, on enemy airfields at Beauvais and Lille in France. Earlier in the morning strong formations of Allied bombers were reported soaring toward Boulogne.

In Russia, German communications at the rear of Smolensk, vital Nazi bastion, were under peril as a result of a sudden Red army thrust northwest of the city. The Red army overran Velizh, 65 miles from Smolensk. Besides flanking Smolensk, the drive threatened Vitebsk, 48 miles farther northwest, an important junction on the railroad line from Leningrad to Odessa which forms the backbone of Nazi defenses in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet thrust at the northern end of an active battlefield now 900 miles long was accompanied by sweeping gains in all sectors from the Smolensk front to the Sea of Azov. More than 1,130 towns and villages were enveloped in 24 hours. The Soviets cut the Kiev-Chernigov highway and advanced to within eight miles of Melitopol, last station on the railroad line out of the Crimea.

In the southwest Pacific, the Allied pincer movement from New Guinea and the Solomons toward the big Japanese base at Rabaul closed tighter with a furious aerial assault on the Cape Gloucester airfield guarding Rabaul. Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers pounded the airfield with 94 tons of bombs.

In addition, long-range fighters attacked another New Britain airfield and strafed enemy positions and surface craft. Mitchell medium bombers dropped 22 tons of explosives on enemy installations near Finschhafen in New Guinea and other bombers soared to Ambon island, west of New Guinea, to attack a Jap seaplane base.

Both of the top officers declared that heavy fighting is coming. Gen. Marshall said he wants to throw all forces possible into Italy to knock out the Germans.

Admiral King said that the American fleet would "expose itself" in the Pacific—plainly foreshadowing an effort to engage the entire Japanese fleet in combat.

While Gen. Marshall said that he preferred younger men in the army—and generally speaking unmarried men—he opposed calling single men between 38 and 45 into service again.

MAYOR JAILS TWO Two Circleville men were sent to Pickaway county jail Monday by Mayor Ben H. Gordon for failure to pay fines for intoxication and disorderly conduct. They were James Ladd, fined $20 and costs after disturbing North Court street residents early Sunday morning, and Chester Porter fined $15 and cost for intoxication.

MRS. FISSELL RECOVERING Mrs. Miller Fissell, Seyfert avenue, is expected to be brought home Tuesday evening from Doctor's hospital, Columbus, where she submitted Monday to a tonsil operation. Mrs. Fissell is stenographer in the office of Auditor Forrest Short.

In a lengthy tribute to the work of the United States Army Air Force in Britain and in the Mediterranean, he said the Americans had carried out "many superb actions of courage and daring."

ORNEY YOUNG ASKS RELEASE FROM PRISON

Orney Young, 51, of near Amanda, who was sentenced by Judge Meeker Terwilliger just a year ago to serve one to 20 years in prison for the hit-skip death of Thomas Paolucci, 19, will be granted a parole hearing November 2 at the London prison farm.

Young has served the minimum under the one to 20 year sentence and because of good behavior, is eligible for parole.

The Fairfield county man was caught by Sheriff Charles Radcliff on the Ringgold pike after he had fled North Court street where his car had killed Paolucci, a civilian employee at Lockbourne army air base. The youth's home was Me-haffey, Pa. He had been rooming here. Young said he was intoxicated at the time and said he did not know his car had struck any one although he noticed a bump where the car had hit what he thought was another car.

Indicted by the Pickaway county grand jury, Young pleaded guilty.

Shortly after being taken to the Ohio penitentiary, Columbus, he was transferred to the prison farm.

The campaign chairman urged the public to make its purchases in larger amounts even to the point of denying themselves certain things considered necessities.

"Families of soldiers and sailors are taking more interest in the drive and are buying all the bonds they can," Mr. Will pointed out, "but many other persons do not appear interested in putting up the money necessary for backing the attack."

Mr. Will called attention to the premiere of "Thank Your Lucky Stars" which will be shown at 11 p. m. Thursday at the Grand theatre. All persons who have bought bonds Monday or Tuesday and who buy Wednesday and Thursday this week will be admitted free. The picture, starring Eddie Cantor and a host of other stars, will have its first showing in Circleville, its release date not being for two days after the presentation here.

The War Loan committee's Special Activities committee headed by Joe W. Adkins, Jr., is handling details concerning the movie.

KENTUCKY MARRIAGES END IN LOCAL COURT

Two Greenup, Ky., marriages went on the rocks Tuesday in common pleas court, two Pickaway county husbands filing divorce petitions. Both charge gross neglect of duty.

One suit was brought by Edward Leatherwood, Ashville, against Mary Leatherwood, also of Ashville. The couple was married April 18, 1942, in Greenup and has one child.

The second petition was brought by Melvin J. Kneec, who left Monday for training for the Seabees, Navy construction unit, against Bessie Kneec, Columbus. They were wed September 5, 1939 in Greenup and also have one child.

"If it were true—and it is not—that there exists an incompatibility between the Catholic faith and the Fascist faith, and if we were forced to choose between the Catholic faith and the Fascist faith—we, by the side of our German comrades, would choose the Fascist faith."

Although the puppet Fascist government set up by the Nazis previously has excoriated the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel for agreeing to an armistice to the Allies, the Berlin broadcast marked the first direct attack on the Vatican.

"The Vatican, with its preaching of pacifism and with its anti-German sentiments, has disturbed the Catholic consciences of the Fascist fighters," the Berlin announcer asserted.

"These centers of sabotage and betrayal will be eliminated from the new Fascist and Republican Italy. Let the policy of the Vatican force us not to have recourse to radical measures."

The complaint of the Nazis and Fascists appeared to stem from the last speech by Pope Pius XII in which he expressed hope that the world would enjoy a just peace.

In reference to this the Berlin announcer said:

"In opposition to the voluntaristic and warring conception of Fascism, the Pope again in his last speech praised the advantages and the virtues derived from peace, and the appeal, also because of the time it was made, invited one to a vile capitulation that was afterward accepted by the monarchy."

Weldon Appointed To Assist Ex-Soldiers In Search For Jobs

Steps were taken Tuesday by the War Manpower Commission to establish an organization for Circleville and Pickaway county to place discharged war veterans in jobs when they return home.

Ralph Gabele, area director for the WMC, announced appointment of N. Turney Weldon, South Court street, as veterans' representative in Pickaway county, assigned to plan work and to locate discharged men in jobs.

Weldon is expected to establish a working agreement with all industrial firms in the city and county so that no delay will be necessary when an ex-soldier or ex-sailor comes home hunting for work.

RATION BOARD GIVES DATA ON U. S. REGULATIONS

Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office is inaugurating a new program through which matters pending before the board, deadlines for filing applications for gasoline, fuel oil and other items, and general information concerning the board's work is being provided. The information in the release, which is to be weekly, is timely.

Information published in the release issued Monday follows:

Gasoline
After October 15, 1943 the boards cannot issue one gallon bulk coupons. The new ration currency will be known as "Gasoline Purchase Permits" (form O. P. A. R-571). These will be used for special rations and for rationing for travel. We are to receive new "B" and "C" books about September 20. These books will be known as "B-1" and "C-1". We are to start issuing these on October 1, 1943.

Tires
Applicants who make emergency calls may obtain two (2) extra mud and snow tires in addition to the normal number permitted.

Processed Food
No changes have been made, although we have one suggestion. We are more and more each day being swamped with applications for special food and meat points. We feel that this is unpatriotic for a continuance of this practice in the face of a probably food shortage.

Commodities
Our fuel oil renewal is under way. We have sent out 6,000 applications and have received back about 1,000 applications. We hope to have these all completed by October 1.

Prices
We will be calling on the Price panel shortly for a meeting. They have been very short of manpower on this panel in the State Office, but now have some relief and have started some movement on this panel.

Board Personnel
Along with the changes in rationing several changes have been made in the Local Office personnel.

Mrs. Stella Groce has been appointed as a under-clerk to replace Miss Wanda Seymour, who was promoted to ceiling price clerk. Mrs. Mary Lou Mowery, ceiling price clerk, was transferred to the gasoline panel clerk to replace Mrs. Eleanor B. Dunlap resigned. Effective October 1, the resignations of Mrs. Lou Mowery and Mrs. Helen Kissling have been accepted. Civil Service Examinations are now being conducted to replace the above employees.

John Holzman of the state office made his first visit to the local board this week. Mr. Holzman replaces Lynn Bradner, who has been transferred to another territory. Our "orchids" this week go to the Girl Scouts of Troops I and II. These girls worked five hours each day and in that time 6,000 fuel oil applications were mailed to individuals for renewal.

PROBATE COURT TO RULE IN DRUNKEN BOY CASE

Circleville police have transferred the case of Junior Ferguson, 16, of South Scioto street, to juvenile court for investigation and prosecution, the youth having been arrested Saturday night when intoxicated. Police were told that his father had bought beer for him in a West Main street establishment.

The investigation was the second transferred to juvenile court after a week end of numerous arrests. Judge Lemuel E. Weldon has been asked to study charges to be put against Margaret Hart, 17, arrested early Monday in a West Main street apartment. Two other girls taken into custody were released by police.

NO MARKETING QUOTA FOR 1943 CORN CROP

No marketing quotas will be invoked on the 1943 corn crop. Pickaway county farmers were informed Tuesday. The War Food Administration is notifying all Agricultural Adjustment Administration offices that while no quotas will be enforced this Fall that they may be reestablished when supplies become excessive. Although the supply of corn this Fall is expected to be large, the large population of livestock will not make marketing quotas necessary.

DIRECTING BOARD OF YEAR CHOSEN BY RED CROSS

Nineteen members of the Pickaway county Red Cross executive committee were named Monday evening to serve during the next year when leaders in the Red Cross organization gathered in the chapter's rooms in the Wellington building.

Carl C. Leist, present chapter chairman, said the executive committee will meet October 7 to elect officers.

Red Cross officers to be chosen at the October 7 session include the chairman, secretary and treasurer, Miss Marvone Howard serving now as secretary and Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker as treasurer.

Members of the executive committee include Leslie D. May, Lyman Bell, Carl Leist, Miss Howard, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, Mrs. George Steeley, Mrs. Harry Heffner, Hal Dean, Robert Brehmer, Mrs. Howard Orr, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Barton Deming, Tom A. Renick, Dan McClain, Mrs. J. B. COLLEGE COURSE OFFERED IN CITY BY WILMINGTON

Persons interested in participating in a college extension course which will entitle them to college credits are being invited to meet in Circleville high school next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock to discuss establishment of such a program in Circleville this winter. Wilmington college, Wilmington, O., is making arrangements to establish such a center here. It is imperative that persons interested attend the first meeting.

In keeping with the government's policy of promoting adult education during the war and as preparation for the peace to follow, Wilmington College is planning a more active, wide-spread extension program this Fall than has been undertaken for a number of years. Preparations are under way to establish extension centers in leading towns throughout southern Ohio, and an effort is being made to interest not only teachers but also business and professional men and women in many fields. A report received by the college from the United States Office of Education states, "There is great need for a group of staunch, well-informed citizens in every community in whom the people have faith and whose support of the war is wholly unrelated to political partisanship."

Only standard courses carrying the usual college credit and the tuition fees will be offered. Members of the regular college faculty will give the courses, and they may be counted toward the standard degrees. Members of a community may select the subjects to be studied and the time of meeting at the opening class period. The program is under the personal direction of Dr. R. D. MacNitt, head of the social science department at the college.

Charles T. Gilmore, Circleville division manager for the Columbus and Southern Ohio, pointed out today that the appeal voiced in the company's advertising is a direct appeal to the public. "In years gone by we have always urged our users to burn as much electricity as possible," the division manager said. "Now we ask them to use only what they absolutely must use."

Mr. Gilmore pointed out that the program is carried on throughout the nation following a direct appeal made by Donald Nelson of the War Production Board and by other leading officials in the government.

Weldon Appointed To Assist Ex-Soldiers In Search For Jobs

Steps were taken Tuesday by the War Manpower Commission to establish an organization for Cincinnati and Pickaway county to place discharged war veterans in jobs when they return home.

Ralph Gabele, area director for the WMC, announced appointment of N. Turney Weldon, South Court street, as veterans' representative in Pickaway county, assigned to plan work and to locate discharged men in jobs.

Weldon is expected to establish a working agreement with all industrial firms in the city and county so that no delay will be necessary when an ex-soldier or ex-sailor comes home hunting for work.

RATION BOARD GIVES DATA ON U.S. REGULATIONS

Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office is inaugurating a new program through which matters pending before the board, deadlines for filing applications for gasoline, fuel oil and other items, and general information concerning the board's work is being provided. The information in the release, which is to be weekly, is timely.

Information published in the release issued Monday follows:

Gasoline
After October 15, 1943 the boards cannot issue one gallon bulk coupons. The new ration currency will be known as "Gasoline Purchase Permits" (form O. P. A. R-571). These will be used for special rations and for rationing travel. We are to receive new "B" and "C" books about September 20. These books will be known as "B-1" and "C-1". We are to start issuing these on October 1, 1943.

Tires
Applicants who make emergency calls may obtain two (2) extra mud and snow tires in addition to the normal number permitted.

Processed Food
No changes have been made, although we have one suggestion. We are more and more each day being swamped with applications for special food and meat points. We feel that this is unpatriotic for a continuance of this practice in the face of a probably food shortage.

Commodities
Our fuel oil renewal is under way. We have sent out 6,000 applications and have received back about 1,000 applications. We hope to have these all completed by October 1.

Prices
We will be calling on the Price panel shortly for a meeting. They have been very short of manpower on this panel in the State Office, but now have some relief and have started some movement on this panel.

Board Personnel
Along with the changes in rationing several changes have been made in the Local Office personnel.

Mrs. Stella Groce has been appointed as a under-clerk to replace Miss Wanda Seymour, who was promoted to ceiling price clerk. Mrs. Mary Lou Mowery, ceiling price clerk, was transferred to the gasoline panel clerk to replace Mrs. Eleanor B. Dunlap resigned.

Effective October 1, the resignations of Mrs. Lou Mowery and Mrs. Helen Kissling have been accepted. Civil Service Examinations are now being conducted to replace the above employees.

John Holzman of the state office made his first visit to the local board this week. Mr. Holzman replaces Lynn Bradner, who has been transferred to another territory.

Our "orchids" this week go to the Girl Scouts of Troops I and II. These girls worked five hours each day and in that time 6,000 fuel oil applications were mailed to individuals for renewal.

PROBATE COURT TO RULE IN DRUNKEN BOY CASE

Cincinnati police have transferred the case of Junior Ferguson, 16, of South Scioto street, to juvenile court for investigation and prosecution, the youth having been arrested Saturday night when intoxicated. Police were told that his father had bought beer for him in a West Main street establishment.

The investigation was the second transferred to juvenile court after a week end of numerous arrests. Judge Lemuel B. Weldon has been asked to study charges to be put against Margaret Hart, 17, arrested early Monday in a West Main street apartment. Two other girls taken into custody were released by police.

NO MARKETING QUOTA FOR 1943 CORN CROP

No marketing quotas will be invoked on the 1943 corn crop, Pickaway county farmers were informed Tuesday. The War Food Administration is notifying all Agricultural Adjustment Administration offices that while no quotas will be enforced this Fall that they may be reestablished when supplies become excessive.

Although the supply of corn this Fall is expected to be large, the large population of livestock will not make marketing quotas necessary.

DIRECTING BOARD OF YEAR CHOSEN BY RED CROSS

Nineteen members of the Pickaway county Red Cross executive committee were named Monday evening to serve during the next year when leaders in the Red Cross organization gathered in the chapter's rooms in the Wellington building.

Carl C. Leist, present chapter chairman, said the executive committee will meet October 7 to elect officers.

Red Cross officers to be chosen at the October 7 session include the chairman, secretary and treasurer, Miss Marvone Howard serving now as secretary and Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker as treasurer.

Members of the executive committee include Leslie D. May, Lyman Bell, Carl Leist, Miss Howard, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, Mrs. A. Hulse Hays, Mrs. George Steeley, Mrs. Harry Heffner, Hal Dean, Robert Brehmer, Mrs. Howard Orr, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Barton Deming, Tom A. Renick, Dan McClain, Mrs. J. B. BARUCH CRITICIZES

BERNARD M. Baruch, elder "statesman without portfolio," is generally called in like a consulting doctor when the patient at Washington fails to make the desired progress. This time it is a complicated labor situation.

Labor is not exactly sick, but subject to erratic behavior, which worries the doctor and the family. And Dr. Baruch finds that, in war production, it is functioning at 25 percent below par. Total production looks large; but it is not so great as it should be, with so much help and such high cost. Labor, he implies, should be producing that missing 25 percent. And the doctor forecasts a real breakdown unless there can be "concerted action of all agencies behind a plan that goes to the root of the trouble."

He blames government inaction, conflicts between governmental agencies, and the "cost plus" plan of war contracts. Under these contracts, he explains, the government pays all the costs, and manufacturers sit back contentedly and don't bother to economize in materials, facilities or labor.

But the fighting forces feed all the material they can get, and all these things will have to be paid for by hard-earned money, over many years. There should be thrift along with high production.

FINISHING THE JOB

If there was one spot more than another, where the President hit the nail on the head in his fighting message to congress, it was where he said:

"There is one thing I want to make perfectly clear. When Hitler and the Nazis go out, the Prussian military clique must go with them. The war-breeding gang of militarists must be rooted out of Germany—and out of Japan—if we are to have any real assurance of future peace."

It was here that the tragic mistake was made at the end of the last war, when Prussian militarism lay helpless before the armed might of the free nations. The peace conference announced that, along with financial reparations and disarmament, the war-makers would be punished for their crimes. But Britain and America, weary of war and everything connected with it, let that pledge go by default in spite of French protests.

If the devil of militarism is ever to be exercised, and the world saved for a peaceful and constructive future, it must be by the destruction, root and branch, of the two powerful militarized nations now threatening to wreck civilization. This should be done relentlessly, even if it involves the hanging of the malefactors which was promised last time and then

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

TRANSFER OF GEN. MARSHALL

WASHINGTON—Members of the senate and house military affairs committees are lodging strong protests with the War department over the impending transfer of Gen. George Marshall from chief of staff to Allied commander-in-chief for the second front in western Europe.

They regard this as an attempt to get Marshall out of the picture as far as the Burma, Italian and south Pacific campaigns are concerned. For when he loses the key post of chief of staff and becomes commander-in-chief in western Europe, he will be in charge of only that one operation, cannot supervise the entire American army on all fronts.

Friends of Gen. Marshall are indignant over his forthcoming transfer, and he himself is none too happy. Senatorial friends attribute the shift to the British, who are reported to have had some stiff altercations with Marshall over a western front.

Gen. Marshall long has thought that the quickest way to Berlin was across the English channel, while Churchill has publicly favored the "soft underbelly" approach via North Africa and Italy.

Senators and congressmen who oppose Gen. Marshall's transfer are among those who have supported Roosevelt's war and foreign policies most vigorously and believe they have a right to be heard now. If they fail to make an impression on Secretary Stimson they may introduce legislation to make Marshall chief of the armies, a title still nominally held by Pershing, and which would make Marshall supreme over every other American officer.

NOTE: Gen. Marshall has recommended Gen. Eisenhower to replace him as chief of staff. However, Gen. B. B. Somerville, army supply officer, is an old friend of Harry Hopkins.

QUEZON ON THE JOB

It's bad news for the Japs that President Quezon of the Philippines is back in Washington. They knew—though it was not generally realized in Washington—that Quezon had suffered a relapse of his old illness, tuberculosis, which has plagued him off and on for twenty years.

Quezon was a well man at the time of Pearl Harbor. But confinement in the dampness of Corregidor, during the Jap attack, brought the illness back again. That was one reason MacArthur urged him to return to the U. S. in a submarine. When he came to Washington, Quezon was advised to take things easy. Instead he rushed into the official activities of Philippine Commonwealth affairs, not sparing himself.

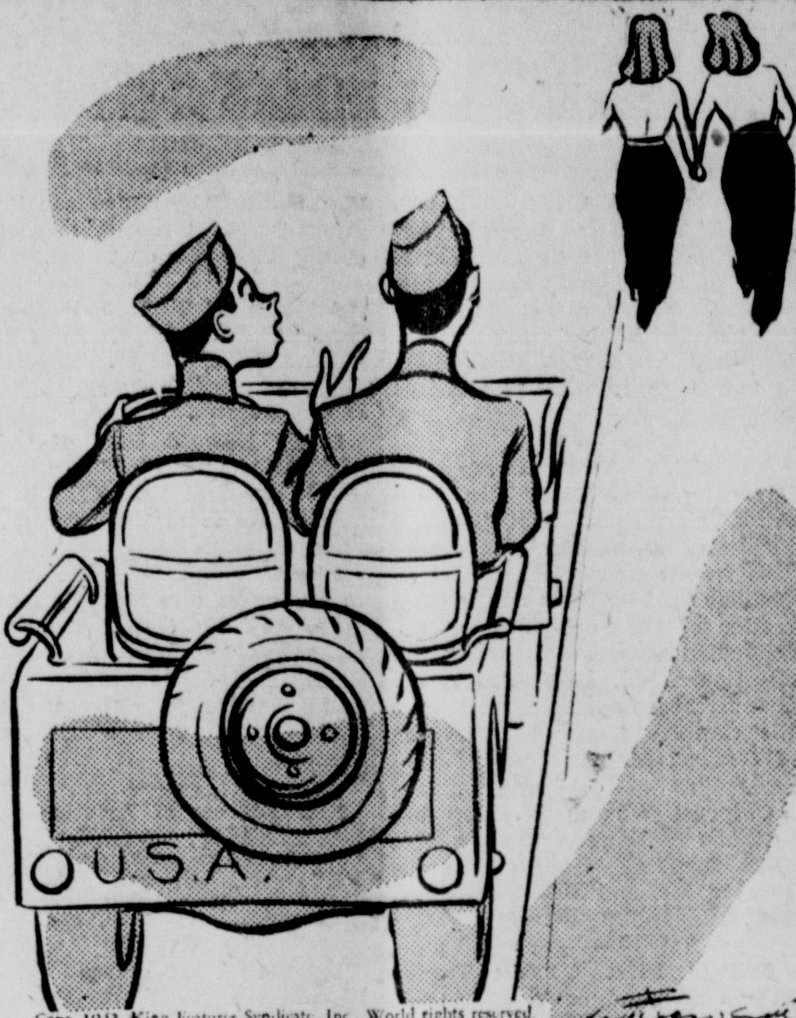

His physicians advised him not to remain in Washington during the Summer of 1942, nor last Winter. But he remained nevertheless. Result was that last Spring he suffered a further relapse.

Specialists were summoned, and Quezon was given the stern advice that he would have to get out of the humid climate of Washington immediately, if he wanted forgotten. Without ruthless and fearless punishment of the leading gangsters, this crusade of civilization may end as another farce.

Backache Needs Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
I MUST confess, as a criticism of my profession, that the average fellow with an average, acute backache in a town of average doctors is not likely to get much of a break in the handling of his case.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Somebody has said that the only person interested in backache is the fellow who has one. There are three kinds of doctors into whose hands he is likely to fall: first, the doctor who gives him some chloroform liniment to rub on and then straps up the back with adhesive tape, no matter what the cause may be. Second, the manipulator who rubs and pounds and wrenches the back, often adding additional injury to the original one, and third, the rarity who really tries to find out what the cause of the trouble is and prescribes treatment accordingly.

Not, you understand, that strapping or manipulation may not be the correct thing, but it is a good idea to find out what exactly is the matter first.

Complicated Structure

The back is a pretty complicated structure. There are first the vertebrae, a succession of bones attached to each other by ligaments and separated by cartilaginous disks. Nearly anything in the way of injury or disease, such as arthritis, might happen to the vertebrae bones alone to cause backache. But then there are a large number of massive muscle groups which move the spinal column around, keep it in line, etc. Anything may throw a strain on them, from high heels to a slumped position at the school desk, and will produce a postural backache.

There are nerves coming out from the spinal cord through apertures between each vertebrae, and these may become inflamed. Then there are organs underneath—the kidneys, which may contain stones to produce backache (although the old conception of Bright's disease appearing as a pain in the back is pure bunk). Then, and this is often forgotten, there is the mental conception of the back. It bears the burdens of life. And some may think their burdens are too heavy and get a psychological backache. So the task of the diagnostician in studying a case of backache is a formidable one. The backache may be acute, due to a wrench or an injury. Here bracing the back to produce immobilization is possibly indicated. The adhesive strapping may be all right or it may require a plaster cast. Recurrent backaches may be due to posture or muscle inflammation, and here lies often the value of massage, manipulation, or some form of physical therapy.

Other Types

Backache relieved by rest is likely to be due to injury, perhaps even small fractures of the vertebral facets. Backache in the morning, getting better as the day wears on, is usually in the muscles—fibrous deposits or what not. Backache at night is likely to be arthritis of the vertebrae or to protrusion of the disks between them. Constant backache often denotes an infection of some part of the spine.

But these are generalities and should always be checked by X-ray and careful physical examination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I.—What climate would you advise for a person with tuberculosis? What diet should one follow? Can a case be treated at home without going to a sanatorium?

Answer: Rest for a prolonged period, and artificial (surgical) collapse of the lung are far more important than either climate or diet in the treatment of tuberculosis. A climate with sufficient altitude to make a rarefied atmosphere or a dry desert climate—in short, the Adirondacks, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona—are the ones chosen. SYNOPSIS

ADAM NORTH, young bachelor who recently converted an old Linville busy factory into a war plant, becomes a "fill-in" stand-by for the town's party givers, among them being:

SUSAN POTTER, whose husband, Bill, has lately been breaking evening dates to "negotiate" a real estate deal with:

ALICIA CARTER, a wily, flirtatious widow, Adam, unknowningly, is loved by her secretary:

RUTH MOOREHOUSE, who at present is having difficulty dissuading the affections of:

JACK VINTON, a mechanic in the plant, Adam, not being aware of Ruth's feelings, is just becoming intrigued with:

BRENDA LEIGH, who is now enjoying an extended vacation in Linville, which she left several years ago to launch a journalistic career in New York City.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

IF SUSAN POTTER had any secret inclination toward weakening in her determination to play the role of Lila in Peter Platt's comedy drama, or to go to work in Adam North's factory cafeteria, that inclination was quickly dispelled two mornings later when she walked into Bill Potter's office and found Alicia Carter sitting there, fairly dripping silver fox furs.

For a moment she nearly forgot her reason for being there herself, the necessity for asking Bill for some extra housekeeping cash, since practically everything she had started out to purchase had gone up in price.

"Oh, pardon me," she said, trying not to sound too sarcastic. "I didn't know you had a caller."

Bill looked up. "Hello, Susan. You know Mrs. Carter, don't you?"

"Yes," said Susan. "We met when she was Mrs. Morton."

Alicia laughed lightly. "Are you sure it wasn't when I was Mrs. Smithers?" She held out her hand. "So glad to see you again, Mrs. Potter."

"Thanks," said Susan. Bill scowled at her, no doubt thinking she was terribly rude not to say she was glad. "Well, let him think what he wants to think," Susan told herself. "I'm not glad to see Alicia Carter sitting in his office, and if he has a grain of masculine common sense he knows it."

"What can I do for you?" Bill asked, exactly as though he were a clerk in a store and she a customer.

"It can wait," she said. "I don't want to interrupt."

"Oh, don't mind me!" said Alicia. "Go ahead. Bill and I can talk later."

"So she's calling him Bill," Susan said down in her throat. "Well, how perfectly ducky!"

"Very well," she said aloud, "here goes. Mrs. Potter would like an extra ten, Mr. Potter. Food has gone up something scandalous." She looked at Alicia. "Feeding a husband and keeping him fit is quite a problem, or did you have to face it?"

"Oh, no," said Alicia. "My first two ate anything set before them, and cared not a hang for keeping fit." She shrugged. "Come to think of it, that was why I divorced them. You know—getting thin of hair and thick of girth." She smiled at Bill. "I must say you do a marvelous job with your husband."

"Thanks," said Bill. "Anyways, I shall never have to divorce him because of his figure."

"How much did you say you wanted?" Bill said, feeling more and more uncomfortable, and getting more and more annoyed. Hang women, anyway!

"Ten dollars," said Susan. "What with the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker adding a penny here and a penny there, it's a wonder a person can ever have anything left for War Stamps and Bonds."

"Here you are," said Bill, not very graciously. Susan took the greenback he was holding out to her.

"I'll come back later," she said as she tucked the money into her purse, "and you can take me to lunch."

"But, Susan," said Bill, "I—that is—we—Mrs. Carter and I—"

"He means he's taking me to lunch," said Alicia, very calmly. "I asked him to. We have a lot of details to talk over in regard to my property."

"Heavens, haven't you made up your mind yet to sell?" said Susan.

"I'm going to sell all right," said Alicia. "But there's a lot of the property, and I can't decide which I want to keep for my own, and which I want to sell Bill for his adorable little family cottages."

"I see," said Susan. She looked at her husband. "Very well, then, I'll lunch at the factory cafeteria."

"Where?" said Alicia in surprise. "The factory cafeteria," Susan repeated. "I have to see Adam North anyway about my job, so—"

"You mean you're going to work at the factory?"

"Yes, my dear," said Susan. "Haven't you heard there's a war?"

"Naturally, but—"

"Susan thinks she can show them how to run the cafeteria," said Bill. "She has big ideas about feeding working people."

"I'm only going to do my bit," said Susan. "I'm going to take over the food planning and help Adam save money on food and at the same time increase the efficiency of the factory workers."

"How amusing!" said Alicia. "Amusing is hardly the word for it," said Susan. "Or maybe you're the sort of person who would get a big laugh out of seeing a bomb fall smack into your bedroom."

She walked to the door and paused there. "Have a nice lunch, you two," she said. "When I get the cafeteria going the way I wish it to go, I'll let you know. Perhaps you would like to come down some day for lunch—as my guests, of course."

"Oh, that would be sweet!" said Alicia.

"Yes, wouldn't it?" said Bill. "Or," Susan continued, eyeing Alicia, "maybe you'd like a job as a waitress."

"Why—I—"

Susan didn't let her finish. "Doing your bit, I mean," she said. And then she hurried out.

In the hall she stood for a moment with her hands pressed tightly to her eyes. "I didn't know I would be such a cat," she thought. Then she rang for the elevator. She hadn't quite made up her mind when leaving home that she would call on Adam North in regard to cafeteria—but now she did make it up.

The idea of Bill Potter's sitting there smiling at that much-married, furburied, self-satisfied female from over in Edinwood? And letting her inveigle him into taking her out to lunch! Not that it had taken very much inveigling, she imagined.

She strode from the office building, her high heels making angry little clicking sounds as she walked. Very well, if Bill could sit in his office and chat business—if it was business—with a woman like Alicia Carter, she would sit in Adam North's office and chat business with him.

Maybe if he paid her enough for her work she'd start dripping silver foxes all over the place.

Wallace-Knox Embrace Makes One Suspicious

Perhaps Vice President Has Eye on Holding Post

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—That recent picture of Vice President Henry Wallace hugging Navy Secretary Frank Knox disturbs me. It outshines in my mind's eye those glowing post-war plans of the vice president.

That is because the Wallace-Knox embrace was so out of character for Henry Wallace. It indicated that Wallace is playing politics in a way not suitable for a son of Iowa. The rush of friendliness that knocked Secretary Knox's hat off meant Wallace is driving himself to undertake some unhappy fourth term shenanigans.

The picture reminded me of a scene in the old Stevens hotel in Chicago while the delegates were assembling for the Democratic convention of 1940. Wallace, then the eager secretary of agriculture, was walking through the lobby between two southern senators. He had an arm over each senator's shoulder, and was laughing and chuckling very noticeably.

"What goes on here?" I thought. "When diffident, self-conscious Henry Wallace tries a chummy embrace with political bosses, something unexpected is certain to happen."

Something unexpected did happen. Wallace was nominated vice president on Franklin Roosevelt's ticket. Perhaps the v. p. wants the job for four years more.

TWO WOMEN—Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Churchill—I hear it said around that the trip of Mrs. Roosevelt to those strange and foreign parts may change her present status as a party liability into a party asset. New Dealers have been uneasy about Mrs. Roosevelt since 1940.

Before then she was an asset. When war threatened the United States and she continued to write and speak, it became more and more difficult for the public to accept her as a personality on her own responsibility, rather than as the mouthpiece of the administration.

BARUCH CRITICIZES

BERNARD M. Baruch, elder "statesman without portfolio," is generally called in like a consulting doctor when the patient at Washington fails to make the desired progress. This time it is a complicated labor situation.

Labor is not exactly sick, but subject to erratic behavior, which worries the doctor and the family. And Dr. Baruch finds that, in war production, it is functioning at 25 percent below par. Total production looks large; but it is not so great as it should be, with so much help and such high cost. Labor, he implies, should be producing that missing 25 percent. And the doctor forecasts a real breakdown unless there can be "concerted action of all agencies behind a plan that goes to the root of the trouble."

He blames government inaction, conflicts between governmental agencies, and the "cost plus" plan of war contracts. Under these contracts, he explains, the government pays all the costs, and manufacturers sit back contentedly and don't bother to economize in materials, facilities or labor.

But the fighting forces need all the material they can get, and all these things will have to be paid for by hard-earned money, over many years. There should be thrift along with high production.

FINISHING THE JOB

IF there was one spot more than another, where the President hit the nail on the head in his fighting message to congress, it was where he said:

"There is one thing I want to make perfectly clear. When Hitler and the Nazis go out, the Prussian military clique must go with them. The war-breeding gang of militarists must be rooted out of Germany—and out of Japan—if we are to have any real assurance of future peace."

It was here that the tragic mistake was made at the end of the last war, when Prussian militarism lay helpless before the armed might of the free nations. The peace conference announced that, along with financial reparations and disarmament, the war-makers would be punished for their crimes. But Britain and America, weary of war and everything connected with it, let that pledge go by default in spite of French protests.

If the devil of militarism is ever to be exercised, and the world saved for a peaceful and constructive future, it must be by the destruction, root and branch, of the two powerful militarized nations now threatening to wreck civilization. This should be done relentlessly, even if it involves the hanging of the malefactors which was promised last time and then

By DREW PEARSON

TRANSFER OF GEN. MARSHALL

WASHINGTON—Members of the senate and house military affairs committees are lodging strong protests with the War department over the impending transfer of Gen. George Marshall from chief of staff to Allied commander-in-chief for the second front in western Europe.

They regard this as an attempt to get Marshall out of the picture as far as the Burma, Italian and south Pacific campaigns are concerned. For when he loses the key post of chief of staff and becomes commander-in-chief in western Europe, he will be in charge of only that one operation, cannot supervise the entire American army on all fronts.

Friends of Gen. Marshall are indignant over his forthcoming transfer, and he himself is none too happy. Senatorial friends attribute the shift to the British, who are reported to have had some stiff altercations with Marshall over a western front.

Gen. Marshall long has thought that the quickest way to Berlin was across the English channel, while Churchill has publicly favored the "soft underbelly" approach via North Africa and Italy.

Senators and congressmen who oppose Gen. Marshall's transfer are among those who have supported Roosevelt's war and foreign policies most vigorously and believe they have a right to be heard now. If they fail to make an impression on Secretary Stimson they may introduce legislation to make Marshall chief of the armies, a title still nominally held by Pershing, and which would make Marshall supreme over every other American officer.

NOTE: Gen. Marshall has recommended Gen. Eisenhower to replace him as chief of staff. However, Gen. B. B. Somerville, army supply officer, is an old friend of Harry Hopkins.

QUEZON ON THE JOB

It's bad news for the Japs that President Quezon of the Philippines is back in Washington. They knew—though it was not generally realized in Washington—that Quezon had suffered a relapse of his ill illness, tuberculosis, which has plagued him off and on for twenty years.

Quezon was a well man at the time of Pearl Harbor. But confinement in the dampness of Corregidor, during the Jap attack, brought the illness back again. That was one reason MacArthur urged him to return to the U. S. in a submarine. When he came to Washington, Quezon was advised to take things easy. Instead he rushed into the official activities of Philippine Commonwealth affairs, not sparing himself.

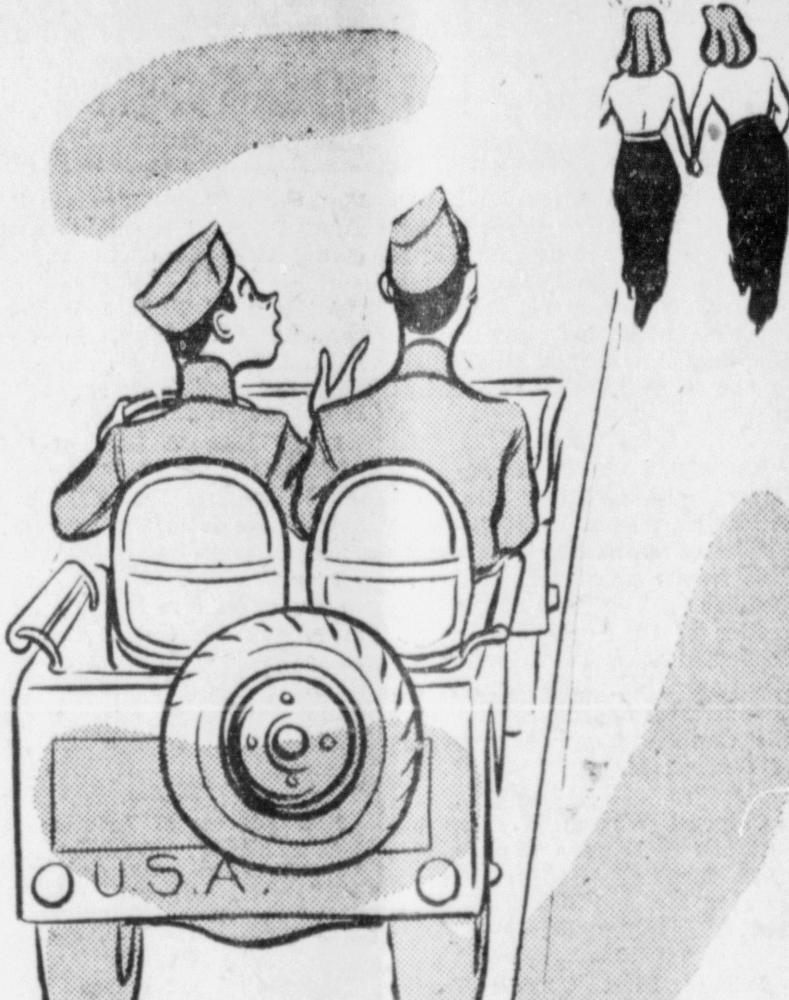

His physicians advised him not to remain in Washington during the Summer of 1942, nor last Winter. But he remained nevertheless. Result was that last Spring he suffered a further relapse.

Specialists were summoned, and Quezon was given the stern advice that he would have to get out of the humid climate of Washington immediately, if he wanted

Backache Needs Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I MUST confess, as a criticism of my profession, that the average fellow with an average, acute backache in a town of average doctors is not likely to get much of a break in the handling of his case.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Somebody has said that the only person interested in backache is the fellow who has one. There are three kinds of doctors into whose hands he is likely to fall: first, the doctor who gives him some chloroform liniment to rub on and then straps up the back with adhesive tape, no matter what the cause may be. Second, the manipulator who rubs and pounds and wrenches the back, often adding additional injury to the original one, and third, the rarity who really tries to find out what the cause of the trouble is and prescribes treatment accordingly.

Not, you understand, that strapping or manipulation may not be the correct thing, but it is a good idea to find out what exactly is the matter first.

Complicated Structure

The back is a pretty complicated structure. There are first the vertebrae, a succession of bones attached to each other by ligaments and separated by cartilaginous disks. Nearly anything in the way of injury or disease, such as arthritis, might happen to the vertebrae bones alone to cause backache. But then there are a large number of massive muscle groups which move the spinal column around, keep it in line, etc. Anything may throw a strain on them, from high heels to a slumped position at the school desk, and will produce a postural backache.

There are nerves coming out from the spinal cord through apertures between each vertebrae, and these may become inflamed. Then there are organs underneath—the kidneys, which may contain stones to produce backache (although the old conception of Bright's disease appearing as a pain in the back is pure bunk). Then, and this is often forgotten, there is the mental conception of the back. It bears the burdens of life. And some may think their burdens are too heavy and get a psychological backache. So the task of the diagnostician in studying a case of backache is a formidable one. The backache may be acute, due to a wrench or an injury. Here bracing the back to produce immobilization is possibly indicated. The adhesive strapping may be all right or it may require a plaster cast. Recurrent backaches may be due to posture or muscle inflammation, and here lies often the value of massage, manipulation, or some form of physical therapy.

Other Types

Backache relieved by rest is likely to be due to injury, perhaps even small fractures of the vertebral facets. Backache in the morning, getting better as the day wears on, is usually in the muscles—fibrous deposits or what not. Backache at night is likely to be arthritis of the vertebrae or to protrusion of the disks between them. Constant backache often denotes an infection of some part of the spine.

But these are generalities and should always be checked by X-ray and careful physical examination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I.—What climate would you advise for a person with tuberculosis? What diet should one follow? Can a case be treated at home without going to a sanatorium?

A climate with sufficient altitude to make a rarefied atmosphere or a dry desert climate—in short, the Adirondacks, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona—are the ones chosen. Wallace-Knox Embrace Makes One Suspicious

Perhaps Vice President Has Eye on Holding Post

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

● WASHINGTON—That recent picture of Vice President Henry Wallace hugging Navy Secretary Frank Knox disturbs me. It outlines in my mind's eye those glowing post-war plans of the vice president.

That is because the Wallace-Knox embrace was so out of character for Henry Wallace. It indicated that Wallace is playing politics in a way not suitable for a son of Iowa. The rush of friendliness that knocked Secretary Knox's hat off meant Wallace is driving himself to undertake some unhappy fourth term shenanigans.

The picture reminded me of a scene in the old Stevens hotel in Chicago while the delegates were assembling for the Democratic convention of 1940. Wallace, then the eager secretary of agriculture, was walking through the lobby between two southern senators. He had an arm over each senator's shoulder, and was laughing and chuckling very noticeably.

"What goes on here!" I thought. "When diffident, self-conscious Henry Wallace tries a chummy embrace with political bosses, something unexpected is certain to happen."

Something unexpected did happen. Wallace was nominated vice president on Franklin Roosevelt's ticket. Perhaps the v. p. wants the job for four years more.

● TWO WOMEN—Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Churchill—I hear it said around that the trip of Mrs. Roosevelt to those strange and foreign parts may change her present status as a party liability into a party asset. New Dealers have been uneasy about Mrs. Roosevelt since 1940.

Before then she was an asset. When war threatened the United States and she continued to write and speak, it became more and more difficult for the public to accept her as a personality on her own responsibility, rather than as the mouthpiece of the administration.

WALNUT-TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

Walnut township schools are indeed fortunate in that all teachers have returned for the year's work, with the exception of the third grade. Miss Elsie Updyke succeeds Miss Margaret Harpster. The high school faculty is the same as last year.

School has been under way almost two weeks and everyone seems to be adjusted already to the year's work.

The enrollment is about the same as last year. One hundred and fifteen pupils have enrolled in high school, a few less than last year. The grade school enrollment is about the same. The total enrollment is about 370 this week.

Cafeteria

Although there are some difficulties connected with operating a school cafeteria, Walnut children have the opportunity of getting a good lunch at reasonable prices. The cafeteria is operated through the board of education.

Mrs. Ray Badger is manager this year and Mrs. Fred Dresbach her assistant.

Mrs. Clara Bowers who has operated our cafeteria for 17 years gave up the work here this year and is operating the cafeteria at Ashville school.

Vocational "Commercial"

The commercial department is, of course, one of the most popular at this time. All of our girls who were graduated last year and many of the Juniors were able to secure positions on leaving school. So there is a great incentive for commercial training.

There are 16 Juniors in typing I and 16 Seniors in typing II. Most of the girls are taking stenography. There is also a class in Business Practice and Office Experience.

Music

The music department is looking forward to another successful year. Band, Orchestra, Girl's Glee Club and some special groups make up the high school program for the year.

Things in prospective are an Operetta, Christmas Cantata, Instrumental appearances at the high school plays and it is hoped that the band will get some opportunity to give public exhibitions. In the Spring a music festival of some kind and commencement activities will round out the year's work.

Vocational Agriculture

All of the freshmen boys are taking agriculture this year. Just a little change has been made in the Vocational Agriculture set up. We are trying the plan of having freshmen and sophomores separated into two classes and the farm shop is to be worked in with the agriculture. This will give the second year students an opportunity of getting their credit in Geometry or Biology, whichever they chose. The Junior fair and the immediate incentive for outside work of this group and the boys are much interested in the outcome of this event.

Home Economics

The girls are quite interested in preservation of foods. The talk of scarcity and government pleas for conservation are partly responsible for this. The girls have canned 125 quarts of tomatoes, 22 quarts of corn and several cans of pimientos. The Junior fair is also of interest to the girls and they are hoping that plans for this event will be carried through.

Athletics

It is a little early to think of basketball but our outlook is fair for a good team this year. The Walnut boys left from last year's team are Pontius, Bell, Hoover, Johnson, and Bumgarner, together with Heath, Johnny Bell and others will be right in there pitching. Games will be scheduled with nearby schools.

Grade School

Our enrollment is equal to, if not a little larger, in the first six grades. Today, we are reporting by grades as follows: 1st 30, 2nd 31, 3rd 30, 4th 37, 5th 30, 6th 31, 7th 34, and 8th 32.

The Senior high school enrollment is 118. A total enrollment of 373 is about equal to our last year's enrollment.

Will You Make This A Day For Our Heroes of America?

Buy a bond today to honor someone you know in the service

Washington wept in his heart for his freezing troops—
And saw blood on the ice where shoeless feet had trod.
"A strong nation is not born of indulgence and ease."

Oh, heroes of America, who are abroad in the earth today,
Enmeshed in the hot and unreasoning machinery of war—
We would not have you know how we cling to our dollars—
Our cowardly, slacker dollars, while you die for us.

Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Hancock, Henry—
"If a people hate war too much to risk all for freedom
At the drop of a hat—freedom will be taken from them."

Forefathers of America, who carried the fearful weight
Of a rebellion and a whole nation on your shoulders—
Who dared to face complete destruction—turn from the right
Of our swollen bank accounts, and our little ideas
Of how few bonds pay the price of our rich inheritance.

Lincoln... with the great rugged soul of you suffering—
Risking the life of the Union to save it,
Help us to be a credit to ourselves—and to our children.

American heroes! Boys and men from farms and towns,
From stark cities, from plains and woods and mountains,
Who are laying your lives at our feet for our freedom—
Wait now... for the impact of this successful hunt
Which beats out from corners and vaults,
From dark and secret places, our dollars—too decent
To remain in hiding when lending them is our duty,
Our PRIVILEGE—and your due.

★ If you POSSIBLY can... you must buy a bond TODAY... else shame the collective heart of America.
For today, all over the country, we all buy a bond in honor of a man or woman at war. Get tough with your money. Whip it out and make it buy bullets and bombs. Only slackers nurse slacker dollars. Send MORE of your dollars to war, to fight. Do it today, for this is AMERICAN HEROES day.

It's EASY to Buy BONDS

It's as easy to buy bonds as to buy shirts or socks. Go into any store or place that's an issuing agent. Pay your money—wait while the bond is typed out with your own name and address—and take the bond away with you. You pay $18.75 for a bond you cash in for $25 in 10 years—$37.50 for a $50 bond, $75 for a $100 bond, $750 for a $1000 bond. If you need your money before the bond matures you can get your money back with earned interest. Lend now for your future.

Whose War IS This?

This isn't the soldiers' and sailors' war. It's yours and mine. It's America—and all we stand for—that the Axis is fighting. That's you and me. We don't have to go to the front to fight—we can send our money. If we don't do that, we're coasting while others carry the fight at the front and at home. Everyone is either "motive power" or a drag on the war. Do all your share. In honor of a fighter you know—or know about—buy a bond today!

WALNUT-TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

Walnut township schools are indeed fortunate in that all teachers have returned for the year's work, with the exception of the third grade. Miss Elsie Updyke succeeds Miss Margaret Harpster. The high school faculty is the same as last year.

School has been under way almost two weeks and everyone seems to be adjusted already to the year's work.

The enrollment is about the same as last year.

One hundred and fifteen pupils have enrolled in high school, a few less than last year. The grade school enrollment is about the same. The total enrollment is about 370 this week.

Cafeteria

Although there are some difficulties connected with operating a school cafeteria, Walnut children have the opportunity of getting a good lunch at reasonable prices. The cafeteria is operated through the board of education.

Mrs. Ray Badger is manager this year and Mrs. Fred Dresbach her assistant.

Mrs. Clara Bowers who has operated our cafeteria for 17 years gave up the work here this year and is operating the cafeteria at Ashville school.

Vocational "Commercial"

The commercial department is, of course, one of the most popular at this time. All of our girls who were graduated last year and many of the Juniors were able to secure positions on leaving school. So there is a great incentive for commercial training.

There are 16 Juniors in typing I and 16 Seniors in typing II. Most of the girls are taking stenography. There is also a class in Business Practice and Office Experience.

Music

The music department is looking forward to another successful year. Band, Orchestra, Girl's Glee Club and some special groups make up the high school program for the year.

Things in prospective are an Operetta, Christmas Cantata, Instrumental appearances at the high school plays and it is hoped that the band will get some opportunity to give public exhibitions.

In the Spring a music festival of some kind and commencement activities will round out the year's work.

Vocational Agriculture

All of the freshmen boys are taking agriculture this year. Just a little change has been made in the Vocational Agriculture set up. We are trying the plan of having freshmen and sophomores separated into two classes and the farm shop is to be worked in with the agriculture. This will give the second year students an opportunity of getting their credit in Geometry or Biology, whichever they chose. The Junior fair and the immediate incentive for outside work of this group and the boys are much interested in the outcome of this event.

Home Economics

The girls are quite interested in preservation of foods. The talk of scarcity and government pleas for conservation are partly responsible for this. The girls have canned 125 quarts of tomatoes, 22 quarts of corn and several cans of pimientos. The Junior fair is also of interest to the girls and they are hoping that plans for this event will be carried through.

Athletics

It is a little early to think of basketball but our outlook is fair for a good team this year. The Walnut boys left from last year's team are Pontius, Bell, Hoover, Johnson, and Bumgarner, together with Heath, Johnny Bell and others will be right in there pitching. Games will be scheduled with nearby schools.

Grade School

Our enrollment is equal to, if not a little larger, in the first six grades.

Today, we are reporting by grades as follows: 1st 30, 2nd 31, 3rd 30, 4th 37, 5th 30, 6th 31, 7th 34, and 8th 32.

The Senior high school enrollment is 118. A total enrollment of 373 is about equal to our last year's enrollment.

BAPTISTS AID CATHOLICS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., — Establishing a precedent of cooperation between two religious groups without parallel in the history of Virginia, the First Baptist church of Alexandria has opened its educational building to St. Mary's Catholic Academy. The academy, now in its 74th year, has a new building under construction. The old academy quarters have been taken over by the Alexandria hospital.

A 70-year-old staff sergeant is on the payroll at Camp Polk, La. He is working in the camp bakery, having the duties of a shipping clerk. The army may yet come to this for certain types of service. Certainly there is no reason why civilian industry should not use the oldsters more.

Will You Make This A Day For Our Heroes of America?

Buy a bond today to honor someone you know in the service

Washington wept in his heart for his freezing troops—
And saw blood on the ice where shoeless feet had trod.
"A strong nation is not born of indulgence and ease."

Oh, heroes of America, who are abroad in the earth today,
Enmeshed in the hot and unreasoning machinery of war—
We would not have you know how we cling to our dollars—
Our cowardly, slacker dollars, while you die for us.

Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Hancock, Henry—
"If a people hate war too much to risk all for freedom
At the drop of a hat—freedom will be taken from them."

Fathers of America, who carried the fearful weight
Of a rebellion and a whole nation on your shoulders—
Who dared to face complete destruction—turn from the sight
Of our swollen bank accounts, and our little ideas
Of how few bonds pay the price of our rich inheritance.

Lincoln... with the great rugged soul of you suffering—
Risking the life of the Union to save it,
Help us to be a credit to ourselves—and to our children.

American heroes! Boys and men from farms and towns,
From stark cities, from plains and woods and mountains,
Who are laying your lives at our feet for our freedom—
Wait now... for the impact of this successful hunt
Which beats out from corners and vaults,
From dark and secret places, our dollars—too decent
To remain in hiding when lending them is our duty,
Our PRIVILEGE—and your due.

It's EASY to Buy BONDS

It's as easy to buy bonds as to buy shirts or socks. Go into any store or place that's an issuing agent. Pay your money—wait while the bond is typed out with your own name and address—and take the bond away with you. You pay $18.75 for a bond you cash in for $25 in 10 years—$37.50 for a $50 bond, $75 for a $100 bond, $750 for a $1000 bond. If you need your money before the bond matures you can get your money back with earned interest. Lend now for your future.

Whose War IS This?

This isn't the soldiers' and sailors' war. It's yours and mine. It's America—and all we stand for—that the Axis is fighting. That's you and me. We don't have to go to the front to fight—we can send our money. If we don't do that, we're coasting while others carry the fight at the front and at home. Everyone is either "motive power" or a drag on the war. Do all your share. In honor of a fighter you know—or know about—buy a bond today!

While the Tiger mentors have not picked their starting team, they have a good idea concerning the first eleven. All members of the squad are in good condition.

Because of travel restrictions school authorities are trying to line up private cars to haul the team members to Hillsboro.

Reds Play 16 Contests At Home; Second Is Goal

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21—Their road chores done for the season, the Cincinnati Reds are now squaring off for the 16 games that remain on their Crosley field calendar, knowing that each of the tilts will have an important bearing on the fight for second place.

Three teams—the Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates—are enmeshed in the squabble for the runner up spot to the world champion Cards.

First team to show at Crosley field will be the New York Giants, who have showed something of their former potency in recent games.

The Reds and Giants will tangle in a ladies' day doubleheader Wednesday, a night game Thursday, and a single tilt Friday.

Over the week end the Boston Braves will supply the opposition. The Reds, who always seem to have trouble with the Braves, meet them in a twilight-night twin bill on Saturday, and in an afternoon doubleheader Sunday.

Then the Phillies make Cincinnati a part of call, meeting the Reds in a single game Monday, September 27, a doubleheader Tuesday, the 28th, and a night game, Wednesday the 29th.

Finally, the Reds will square off against the Brooklyn Dodgers, meeting the "Bums" in a single game on September 30, a night game October 1, a ladies' day affair, October 2, and a single Sunday contest, October 3.

If the race for second place continues to be as torrid as it has been already, it is possible that the decision will have to await the outcome of the Cincinnati-Brooklyn series.

TIGERS DRILL FOR LIDLIFTER

Red And Black To Invade Hillsboro; Hard Work On Schedule

Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong started to put their Red and Black grid team together Monday evening in preparation for Friday's season opener at Hillsboro.

The Red and Black squad of about 35 boys went through all types of drills Monday evening, and was expected to be put through a lengthy practice to be capped by a scrimmage Tuesday after school.

While the Tiger mentors have not picked their starting team, they have a good idea concerning the first eleven. All members of the squad are in good condition. Because of travel restrictions school authorities are trying to line up private cars to haul the team members to Hillsboro.

FOUR STARS OF PACIFIC COAST LOOP NOW CUBS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—Four members of the Pacific coast league pennant-winning Los Angeles Angels were under orders today to report to the Chicago Cubs Thursday following announcement of their "purchase."

The deal was completed by General Manager James T. Gallagher of the Cubs and Vice President James T. Gallagher of the Angels, who carried on negotiations in conference with himself.

The players, needed to bolster the reeling Cubs, are:

Outfielder Andy Pafko, 21, of Boyceville, Wis., prize of the rookie quartet, who hit .358 in 157 games with the Angels and batted in 116 runs; Catcher Billy Holm, 30, of Chicago; Shortstop William C. Schuster, 29, of Buffalo, and Outfielder Johnny Ostrowski, 22, of Chicago.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Downy Mildew on Grapes in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

IF YOU have been puzzled by a mildew upon the stems and leaves of the grapes in your Victory garden, you may find that the vines are infected with "downy mildew," one of the worst fungus enemies of the grape.

Downy mildew affects the leaves and tender vines as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, and it also affects the grape berries. It causes loss through the total or partial destruction of the foliage, and through the stunting of the new shoots. In many areas this has been a season which has resulted in much downy mildew because the disease develops rapidly during wet, hot seasons.

Reds Play 16 Contests At Home; Second Is Goal

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21—Their road chores done for the season, the Cincinnati Reds are now squaring off for the 16 games that remain on their Crosley field calendar, knowing that each of the tilts will have an important bearing on the fight for second place.

Three teams—the Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates—are enmeshed in the squabble for the runner up spot to the world champion Cards.

First team to show at Crosley field will be the New York Giants, who have showed something of their former potency in recent games.

The Reds and Giants will tangle in a ladies' day doubleheader Wednesday, a night game Thursday, and a single tilt Friday.

Over the week end the Boston Braves will supply the opposition. The Reds, who always seem to have trouble with the Braves, meet them in a twilight-night twin bill on Saturday, and in an afternoon doubleheader Sunday.

Then the Phillies make Cincinnati a part of call, meeting the Reds in a single game Monday, September 27, a doubleheader Tuesday, the 28th, and a night game, Wednesday the 29th.

Finally, the Reds will square off against the Brooklyn Dodgers, meeting the "Bums" in a single game on September 30, a night game October 1, a ladies' day affair, October 2, and a single Sunday contest, October 3.

If the race for second place continues to be as torrid as it has been already, it is possible that the decision will have to await the outcome of the Cincinnati-Brooklyn series.

RED BIRDS AND BREWERS TANGLE IN PLAYOFF GO

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21 — The American Association's annual baseball playoff series starts tonight.

The first-place Milwaukee Brewers will entertain third-place Columbus, while the second-place Indianapolis Indians play host to fourth-place Toledo.

Despite the superior season's ranking of Milwaukee and Indianapolis, Columbus, winner of the "little world series" with the International league last year, was rated the team to beat again.

The series will be on a best three-out-of-five basis.

BUCK CHANCES NOT GOOD, SAYS MR. PAUL BROWN

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21—Cosch Paul Brown ruefully admitted today that Ohio State's chances against the Iowa Seahawks were slim.

"Those Seahawks remember the pasting we gave 'em last year, and they're coming over here with the idea of evening it," Brown said.

According to Brown, the Seahawks have as many professional players as we have boys with college experience—and none of our boys has had more than one year of college play.

You'll always be glad you bought those War Bonds, and so will the boys!

HAWTHORNE JOCKEY, SET DOWN, MAY LOSE HONORS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—Tony Skoronski, leading jockey in the current Hawthorne meet with 16 winners, today faced the possibility of losing out in the race for top riding honors after being set down for a 10-day period.

Skoronski drew the suspension for cutting across the field too sharply yesterday in the seventh race, in which he piloted Volcano to second place. Jockey H. Carden, who was up on Lum's Pride, the favorite, was fined $25 for striking Tony with his whip.

It had been an active day for Skoronski. He started out the day by steering Azimuth to victory in the first half of the daily double in the opening race and was tossed from his horse, Yar, in the sixth event.

As things turned out, the second half of the daily double, which paid $288.50, was ridden by Lyle Whiting, who is hot in pursuit of Skoronski for riding honors.

Whiting brought home at the head of the pack a 28 to 1 shot, Little Minx, in the second race, for the first victory of her career. Those who bet across the board on her collected $58.40, $19.40 and $12.40.

BROTHER OF ACE GRIDDER HUTSON VICTIM OF WAR

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 21—Flight Officer Robert P. Hutson, brother of Don Hutson, one of professional football's greatest stars, was killed in action, it was learned in Pine Bluff today.

In a telegram to Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hutson of Pine Bluff, the War department revealed that Robert, previously reported missing in action in the southwest Pacific war zone, had been killed.

Robert Hutson was all-state quarterback at Pine Bluff during high school days in 1938 and 1939 and played at Alabama until his enlistment.

He had never been separated from his twin brother, Raymond, a lieutenant with the ferry command, until completion of their air force training.

A seven-game series is a peculiar thing, as I was trying to tell a fellow only today. I told that the Yankees might be taken by a real good semi-pro team, if the latter had a standout pitcher or two. That is far-fetched, of course, for the Yankees and the Cards represent preeminence in their respective circuits.

But because miracles do happen in sports a real good unheard of team could conceivably beat the Yanks or anybody else four out of seven with stellar pitching, or could at least make it close and for that reason the team that gets the pitching in the World Series is the one that must win.

In other words, pitching dominates baseball. An exceptional pitcher with fair fielding support figures to beat a poor pitcher no matter how good his team may be.

Getting back to the original idea, the Yanks still shouldn't be 7 to 5 favorites as I look at it, because the pitching for the two clubs is just about even. If the pitching is even the series is even and that tells everything.

Or am I wrong, as usual.

JIMMIE WILSON DENIES PLAN TO QUIT CUB POST

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—Jimmie Wilson today denied reports that he plans to resign in the near future as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

"I'm staying on the job until my contract expires December 21. What occurs after that, I don't know."

Cubs owner P. K. Wrigley and General Manager Jim Gallagher have both said nothing will be done about the managerial job until the season ends.

Returning to Chicago with the club for the season's final 16-game home stand, Wilson asserted: "I'm staying on the job until my contract expires December 21. What occurs after that, I don't know."

Cubs owner P. K. Wrigley and General Manager Jim Gallagher have both said nothing will be done about the managerial job until the season ends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Beverly of Sabina were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bush and Sammy Chaffin. Other Sunday guests at the Bush home were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bush and son Ronald of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush and son Trevvie of New Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Canup were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Evans and son Harley.

OPHELIA AND MCCARTHY

Man bites dog may be news, but Edgar Bergen without Charlie McCarthy is bound to be bigger news. When the top-flight comedian of radio and screen appears on "What's New?" broadcast, Saturday at 7 p. m. over the Blue network, he'll leave Charlie at home and introduce for the first time over the airwaves "Ophelia." Dinah Shore, Dixieland songstress, will be on hand for the occasion. "Ophelia" is Bergen's little old lady character. Though she's never been before a mike, "Ophelia" once made a public appearance at the Chez Paree in Chicago. Infrequently, "Ophelia" has come out of her seclusion to make a rare appearance at a private party of Bergen's and more recently she has turned up at service camp shows. Despite "Ophelia's" mellow years, she takes no back seat from the young, wooden-headed Charlie when it comes to a sense of humor.

DICK HAYMES

Dorothy Stickney and Howard Lindsay, who created the leading roles in the stage hit, "Life with Father," play a hilarious scene from that play, and Dick Haymes sings in the style which has won him a foremost position among singers of popular song, on the "Stage Door Canteen" broadcast Thursday at 9:30 p. m., over station WBNS. Bert Lytell is master of ceremonies. Raymond Paige is music director.

MARLENE DIETRICH

It will be Marlene Dietrich on the Fred Brady Show on Thursday at 7:30 p. m., over station WLW, appearing on the program in behalf of the Third War Loan Drive.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

When Dinah Shore starts her new starring series on CBS Thursday, September 30, you can expect her to have one of the brightest theme songs on the air. It is being fashioned by the expert team of Bobby Dolan and Joe Lilley, who have written many hits for Paramount pictures. In addition to composing them, Dolan will also baton the music for Dinah, and Lilley's nine-voiced mixed choir will accompany her in song selections.

Billy Mills, orchestra leader, is casting about for a new drummer since Spike Jones' personal appearances in the east make it impossible for him to be on the "Fibber McGee" program when it returns to the air this season.

Continuing their commercial broadcast schedule while still helping in the war effort, the entire Horace Heidt "Treasure Chest" orchestra, heard on NBC Tuesday nights, will take jobs in defense plants during the day.

when they return to the west coast. The troupe is currently finishing a successful but brief stay in the east.

Jimmy Durante, between movie rehearsals and work on his broadcasts with Garry Moore, is an author, too. His first book, entitled "One-Two-Three, Woof," is a collection of anecdotes Pierce has culled from his fourteen years in radio.

Phil Spitalny and his "Hour of Charm" all-girl orchestra are weighing the possibility of another tour of service bases, with their Sunday broadcasts originating from the camp recreation halls.

The girls scored a big hit with the men in uniform, in a similar tour last year.

Paul Pierce, NBC "Hollywood Theatre of the Air" producer, is an author, too. His first book, entitled "One-Two-Three, Woof," is a collection of anecdotes Pierce has culled from his fourteen years in radio.

Sure sign that Dick Haymes, singing star of "Here's to Romance," has "arrived" is the fact that he is so much in demand for War Bond rallies. One night this week, Dick took part in a Bond broadcast from El Moroco, swank

New York nite spot, which lasted far into the next morning. At 9:30 that aye, he reported for rehearsal of another Bond broadcast, with Columnist Dorothy Kilgallen and Conrad Nagel.

Jay Jostyn, who portrays the dynamic "Mr. District Attorney" acted as emcee and chief speaker at a War Bond rally in Pt. Washington, Long Island, N. Y., Tuesday night. The sale of Bonds totalled $988,000!

Woody Herman and his orchestra continue on their personal appearance tour of the Middle West. Woody played at the Paramount

Theatre, Toledo, Sept. 17-19, and is at the Palace Theatre, Columbus, Sept. 21-23; and the Palace Theatre, Cleveland, week of September 24. Chubby Jackson, formerly bass player with Charlie Barnet, has joined Herman's band.

Carlton Morse, the "I Love a Mystery" writer-producer, was explaining a new cipher code he plans to use in a forthcoming adventure thriller over CBS. "I get it," exclaimed sleuth Doc Long. "It's kind of a MORSE code!"

Dinah Shore confided to a friend this week that she and her house-

mate, Kitty Kallen (singer with Jimmy Dorsey's band) are cooking up something special in music. They're working on a modern version of Brahms' Lullaby and they practice it in duet form around the house every morning as they prepare for work.

For the second season in succession Genevieve Rowe, known to dialers of "Gay Nineties Revue" on CBS Monday nights as Jenny Lynn, will be soloist for the Victory Concerts for servicemen on Saturday and Sunday in New York City. The first concert will be held at the New York Public Library, the second at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

OPHELIA AND MCCARTHY

Man bites dog may be news, but Edgar Bergen without Charlie McCarthy is bound to be bigger news. When the top-flight comedian of radio and screen appears on "What's New?" broadcast, Saturday at 7 p. m. over the Blue network, he'll leave Charlie at home and introduce for the first time over the airwaves "Ophelia." Dinah Shore, Dixieland songstress, will be on hand for the occasion. "Ophelia" is Bergen's little old lady character. Though she's never been before a mike, "Ophelia" once made a public appearance at the Chez Paree in Chicago. Infrequently, "Ophelia" has come out of her seclusion to make a rare appearance at a private party of Bergen's and more recently she has turned up at service camp shows. Despite "Ophelia's" mellow years, she takes no back seat from the young, wooden-headed Charlie when it comes to a sense of humor.

DICK HAYMES

Dorothy Stickney and Howard Lindsay, who created the leading roles in the stage hit, "Life with Father," play a hilarious scene from that play, and Dick Haymes sings in the style which has won him a foremost position among singers of popular song, on the "Stage Door Canteen" broadcast Thursday at 9:30 p. m., over station WBNS. Bert Lytell is master of ceremonies. Raymond Paige is music director.

MARLENE DIETRICH

It will be Marlene Dietrich on the Fred Brady Show on Thursday at 7:30 p. m., over station WLW, appearing on the program in behalf of the Third War Loan Drive.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

When Dinah Shore starts her new starring series on CBS Thursday, September 30, you can expect her to have one of the brightest theme songs on the air. It is being fashioned by the expert team of Bobby Dolan and Joe Lilley, who have written many hits for Paramount pictures. In addition to composing them, Dolan will also baton the music for Dinah, and Lilley's nine-voiced mixed choir will accompany her in song selections.

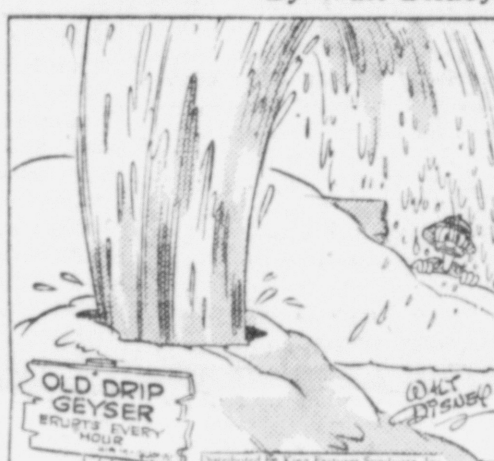

Billy Mills, orchestra leader, is casting about for a new drummer since Spike Jones' personal appearances in the east make it impossible for him to be the "Fibber McGee" program when it returns to the air this season.

Continuing their commercial broadcast schedule while still helping in the war effort, the entire Horace Heidt "Treasure Chest" orchestra, heard on NBC Tuesday nights, will take jobs in defense plants during the day when they return to the west coast. The troupe is currently finishing a successful but brief stay in the east.

Jimmy Durante, between movie rehearsals and work on his broadcasts with Garry Moore, will appear on a Bing Crosby "G. I." transcription for overseas use, along with Linda Darnell, Rochester and "The Groaner," himself.

Phil Spitalny and his "Hour of Charm" all-girl orchestra are weighing the possibility of another tour of service bases, with their Sunday broadcasts originating from the camp recreation halls.

The girls scored a big hit with the men in uniform, in a similar tour last year.

Paul Pierce, NBC "Hollywood Theatre of the Air" producer, is an author, too. His first book, entitled "One-Two-Three, Woof," is a collection of anecdotes Pierce has culled from his fourteen years in radio.

Sure sign that Dick Haymes, singing star of "Here's to Romance," has "arrived" is the fact that he is so much in demand for War Bond rallies. One night this week, Dick took part in a Bond broadcast from El Morocco, swank

New York nite spot, which lasted far into the next morning. At 9:30 that aye, he reported for rehearsal of another Bond broadcast, with Columnist Dorothy Kilgallen and Conrad Nagel.

Jay Jostyn, who portrays the dynamic "Mr. District Attorney" acted as emcee and chief speaker at a War Bond rally in Pt. Washington, Long Island, N. Y., Tuesday night. The sale of Bonds totalled $988,000!

Woody Herman and his orchestra continue on their personal appearance tour of the Middle West. Woody played at the Paramount

Theatre, Toledo, Sept. 17-19, and is at the Palace Theatre, Columbus, September 21-23; and the Palace Theatre, Cleveland, week of September 24. Chubby Jackson, formerly bass player with Charlie Barnet, has joined Herman's band.

Carlton Morse, the "I Love a Mystery" writer-producer, was explaining a new cipher code he plans to use in a forthcoming adventure thriller over CBS. "I get it," exclaimed sleuth Doc Long. "It's kind of a MORSE code!"

Dinah Shore confided to a friend this week that she and her house-

mate, Kitty Kallen (singer with Jimmy Dorsey's band) are cooking up something special in music. They're working on a modern version of Brahms' Lullaby and they practice it in duet form around the house every morning as they prepare for work.

For the second season in succession Genevieve Rowe, known to dialers of "Gay Nineties Revue" on CBS Monday nights as Jenny Lynn, will be soloist for the Victory Concerts for servicemen on Saturday and Sunday in New York City. The first concert will be held at the New York Public Library, the second at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Bumper County Crop Of Soybeans Moving To Market.

HARVEST RUNS TO 38 BUSHELS IN SOME AREAS

At Least 23,500 Acres In Legume, Is Estimate Of AAA Office

CORN CANNING NEAR END

Local Pack Reported 25 Percent Under Figure For Last Year

Two more milestones were reached in Pickaway county's 1943 agriculture endeavor Tuesday when farmers started to move a large crop of soybeans to market, and cannery operators announced that the end of the corn pack would be reached Tuesday and Wednesday. Esmeralda Co. will pack its last corn Tuesday, the Winorr Co. expecting its last run Wednesday.

The soybean crop is expected to be a record one this year with early reports from elevators indicating that the beans are in almost perfect condition. Soybeans are bringing farmers $1.80 a bushel at the present time.

One farmer from the Ashville district reported that his soybean harvest amounted to 35 bushels an acre, and another said his harvested 28 bushels. Nearly all the beans put on the market to date have tested under 14 percent moisture which qualifies them for the top price.

Big Acreage

While the exact soybean acreage is not known, Pickaway county AAA office said Tuesday that its figures show at least 23,500 acres planted in soybeans this year. There are probably a few hundred acres more than that, the AAA indicated.

Loans are available to soybean farmers who store beans on the farm. Beans having a moisture content of 14 percent or less and grading No. 4 or better are eligible for storing. Loans may be obtained any time prior to January 31, 1944, and will mature on demand April 30, 1944.

Under a government purchase plan, beans may be delivered to dealers who have agreed to accept them. A grade determination will be made and the county committee will draw a draft of the Commodity Credit Corporation for the value of the beans. Purchase will be made on the basis of $1.80 for grade 2 1/4 percent moisture. Beans so purchased may be shipped by the elevator man to processors, stored in his warehouse or delivered to government grain bins.

Corn Pack Near End

With the end of the corn pack at hand, cannery declared Tuesday that the number of cans packed will be about 25 percent short of the 1942 pack, a record one. "We have packed a lot of corn," one canner said, "and we have done as well as can be expected, but we are short of the 1942 figure." He declared that much corn was lost in the Scioto river lowlands because of flood waters. Esmeralda Co. plant will soon start processing pumpkin, and so will the Winorr plant. At present the latter factory is canning lima beans in addition to corn.

The pack of pumpkin is limited because of restriction on the amount of tin cans available. Although cannery will not announce the total of their pack of beans, peas, corn and other products, it is estimated that approximately 300,000 cases of goods have been put up in Pickaway county this year, since the figure is so indefinite, it is possible the pack may be even larger.

Cannery paid tribute Tuesday to Cincinnati and Pickaway county persons who have assisted during the canning season. Although the supply of usual canning labor was very short, all local factories

BALDWIN WANTS TO KNOW

When Jim LeCron resigned from the Rockefeller Office with a blast at the State Department, he received a telephone call from his old friend, Calvin B. Baldwin, who on the same day, had been appointed by the State Department as Economic Boss for Italy. Both men were Henry Wallace proteges and long-time friends.

"What do you mean," said Baldwin, "by criticizing my State Department?"

"I do hope you can make the wheels go 'round, Beany," replied LeCron.

This proved to be an ill omen of the grief to which Baldwin fell heir. He is being urged to go overseas promptly, but declines to budge until the question of authority is straightened out. Otherwise, he would find, in his overseas base, the same confusion which exists in Washington.

Although Baldwin is supposed to be the chief, no less than seven agencies have their fingers in his pie. Including the State Department, they are Lease-Lend, OEWS, Treasury, War, Navy, and the Lehman Office (Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation).

Baldwin wants an answer to the simple question of whether he is to direct American economic activities in Italy, or merely to coordinate the activities of others. If he is to be merely a coordinator, he will get into as much confusion in Italy as State Department's Robert Murphy did in North Africa. Furthermore, U. S. agencies would be in a weakened condition in dealing with the British, who have sense enough to unify their overseas operations.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Argentine Ambassador Espil, one of the ablest diplomats Washington has seen since Jusserand, recently was offered the post of Argentine Ambassador to London. But because of difficult relations with the U. S., he decided to stay on in Washington. A great admirer of the U. S. A. and an unhappy advocate of Argentine-U. S. cooperation, he has told his government that his resignation was available any time they wanted to accept it. "Folks down in Mississippi, where George Allen hasn't voted for years, are wondering where he gets his qualifications to be secretary of the Democratic National Committee. Maybe its because he is the nephew of "Private" John Allen, who is a Congressman once persuaded a Republican Congress to vote a fish-hatchery for Tupelo, Miss. At least one thing everyone in the State Department agreed on was the vigorous note to Argentine refusing lend-lease. It was drafted before Sumner Welles resigned as Undersecretary of State. Clark H. Minor, President of International General Electric, has gone to London to confer with the Perelli Company, biggest electric manufacturing firm in Italy, regarding the transfer of Perelli subsidiary in Brazil to International General Electric. The Brazilian Government seized the Perelli subsidiary, but now Perelli wants International General Electric to take it over for safekeeping. Looks as if the international cartels were lining things up again.

S. cooperation, he has told his government that his resignation was available any time they wanted to accept it. "Folks down in Mississippi, where George Allen hasn't voted for years, are wondering where he gets his qualifications to be secretary of the Democratic National Committee. Maybe its because he is the nephew of "Private" John Allen, who is a Congressman once persuaded a Republican Congress to vote a fish-hatchery for Tupelo, Miss. At least one thing everyone in the

Minor, President of International General Electric, has gone to London to confer with the Perelli Company, biggest electric manufacturing firm in Italy, regarding the transfer of Perelli subsidiary in

FACTS ABOUT WEDNESDAY CLOSING

Some Stores Will Be Open
Other Stores Will Close

Retail problems are very different in each class of stores and the needs of one type will not fit those of others. Many lines of merchandise are either restricted or off the market altogether and the shelves of many stores are bare. These stores of course can serve the public with what they have in less than ordinary store hours. On the other hand retail stores of the Apparel or Soft Lines have very seasonable lines of styles that must be sold in season and every hour of the season is needed to turn those stocks.
